PARIS FALLS TO GERMANS

Hitler Armies Launch Bold Attack on Maginot Line Endangering French Force of 1,000,000 Men

GERMANS SAY FRENCH HOUR HAS STRUCK

Nazis Declare Hitler Did Utmost to Preserve Paris Intact.

UTILIZE INDUSTRIES

Encirclement Tactics Again Used Successfully By Invaders.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE GERMAN ARMIES ON ROUTE TO PARIS—(Relayed by Courier)—Germany's armed legions are in Paris today.

The French capital has been abandoned by its troops.

With these developments, German authorities declared, "France's hour has struck."

Prior to the German occupation of the French capital, Germans hoped the favorite tourist resort and playground of the old world could spare itself the horrors that mangled Warsaw and Rotterdam.

German sources declared that Chancellor Hitler did his utmost "within military reason" to keep Paris intact.

They said he staked his hope of preserving the city on belief that Paris defense authorities would recognize the "futility of turning the home of 4,000,000 people into a heap of ruins and ashes for the sake of prestige or propagandistic effect abroad."

Moving forward with the converging German armies over French roads leading to the capital, German authorities said that with the fall of Paris the French military outlook is becoming hopeless."

They declared that in addition to Paris, the basic industrial, transportation and administrative areas of all France now pass under control of Hitler.

It appeared that most of the vital French industries in the captured Paris region are in fairly good condition. Soon, it was stated, they will be put to work against the section of France still controlled by the Reynaud government.

German authorities said the fate of Paris was sealed several days ago when, according to a German office, the advancing Nazi divisions saw from the regions northwest of Paris in the hot June sunshine the majestic Eiffel tower pointing the tricolor high into the sky.

Observers had noticed that the Eiffel tower elevator was no long-

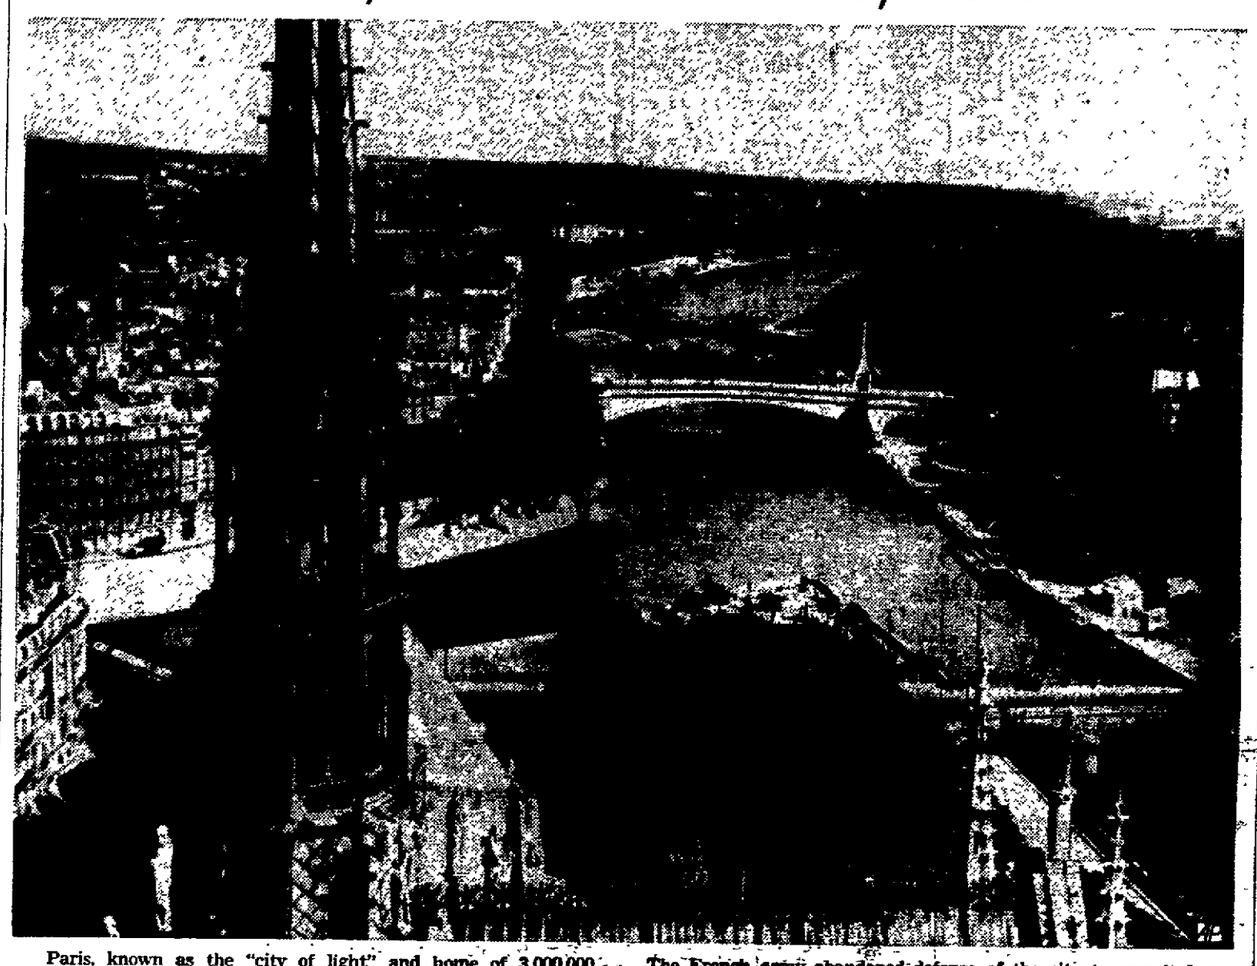
Paris, Heart of France, Falls



Paris, known as the "city of light" and home of 3,000,000 Frenchmen, today was in the hands of German conquerors, who marched and rode in rumbling tanks through its spacious streets.

The French army abandoned defense of the city to save it from destruction and was falling back to the south. This picture shows a view of Paris and the Seine river from the Ile de la Cite.

NEW CASTLE, Pa. — (U.P.) — An attractive New Castle beauty operator, afraid to walk home alone, was slashed to death today by her brother-in-law, whom she had asked to accompany her for protection.

Held as her slayer was Arthur Dean, 35, a WPA worker.

America Now Doing All Possible to Aid Allies

Official Washington Sympathizes With France But Sees No Reason for Sending Troops.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Official Washington—White House and congress, Democrats and Republicans alike—today viewed with deepest sympathy the desperate and "last" appeal of French Premier Reynaud for immediate, whole-hearted American aid to the sorely-stricken Allied armies.

But it appeared that the White House had summed up the answer:

"Everything possible already is being done."

A representative cross-section of congressional opinion continued to show overwhelming opposition to an American declaration of war—for which Reynaud apparently pleaded last night over the radio when he asked: "Will they (Americans) still hesitate to declare themselves against Nazi Germany?"

President Roosevelt may make an informal reply to the French appeal later in the day at his press conference. A formal answer awaited actual receipt by the White House of the message Reynaud said over the radio he had dispatched.

Strongest immediate reaction in favor of the French plea for still more succor came from Sen. Claude Pepper (D. Fla.), ardent New Dealer who has repeatedly but unsuccessfully tried to persuade the senate to vote to send the Allies army and navy planes in large numbers at once.

"It seems to me," said Pepper, "that if the people had the opportunity to pass on it today they would grant the aid that Premier Reynaud asks. It is unthinkable

REYNAUD ASKS 'PLANE CLOUDS'

Powerful Appeal Made to U. S. By France in Hour of Greatest Need.

(By Associated Press)

TOURS, France—As Germany's blitzkrieg scored sweeping progress today, France turned frankly to the United States for help to rescue her from defeat.

In particular, she asked for "clouds of warplanes" from the United States now.

The issue was put bluntly last night by Premier Paul Reynaud, who urged "the great American people" to "declare themselves against Nazi Germany."

It is time for all democracies to repay their "debt" to France, he said in a radio address to America and the world.

Assistance "permitted by American law," previously asked and previously given, is not

Berlin Hails Start Of End for Brave Foe In West Wall Attack

Destruction of British Auxiliary Cruiser and Damage to Six Other Ships Reported By Berlin; Maginot Guns Powerless In Event Teutons Encircle Famous Defense Wall.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—German authorities tonight denied a report, received from a source which is usually trustworthy, that U. S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt had been placed in protective custody by German military authorities in Paris. The United States embassy here said it had no information on the subject.

(By Associated Press)

Hitler's armies marched into the streets of Paris today, captured the vital French port of Le Havre on the English channel and in their hour of triumph—bitter defeat for France—launched a bold frontal attack on the great Maginot line itself.

Rapidly swarming German mechanized columns poured behind the main Maginot fortifications between Paris and Montmedy to imperil from the rear the 1,000,000 French poilus manning the steel-and-concrete line.

In case of an assault from behind, it was not believed that the French could turn their Maginot guns around.

"Pursuit of the enemy until final destruction has now begun," the Nazi high command declared exultantly.

The French government was reported fleeing from Tours, presumably to take refuge in Bordeaux, on France's southwest coast.

The frontal attack on the Maginot line centered in the Saar region.

Destruction of the 17,000 ton British auxiliary cruiser Scotstown and eight Allied transports off Le Havre and damage to six others was reported by the Nazi high command, indicating heavy losses to British troops rushing to support their beleaguered French Allies.

Madrid announced that Spanish troops had occupied the international zone of Tangier in the name of the sultan of Morocco "to safeguard the independence and neutrality of the city"—which lies opposite the British stronghold of Gibraltar, guardian rock of the Mediterranean.

It was not immediately apparent whether this action heralded the entrance of Spain into the fast-widening European conflict.

Hitler's legions began marching into Paris yesterday afternoon.

It was the first time since Bismarck's troops took Paris in 1871 that Germany's goose-stepping warriors had marched into the beautiful old French capital.

In France's blackest hour, Britain rushed new reinforcements of British Tommies behind Paris to bolster the morale and fighting strength of the desperately driven French.

Weakening French resistance was indicated in a heavily-censored dispatch from Tours stating that a new French defense line would be taken up anew on the Loire river, 65 miles south of Paris, "if the fight goes on."

Dozens of lines in the dispatch were censored, but it was evident from the number of important German gains which the censor permitted to go through—including a major new threat to the Maginot line itself—that the Associated Press correspondent was trying to tell of even greater events.

This acknowledgement followed by some hours the first news of the Nazi victory flashed by United States Ambas-

FRENCH FACING HOPELESS ODDS

Say Only 'Declaration of War By United States' Can Keep Them Fighting.

By JOHN MacVANE
(INS Staff Correspondent)

TOURS, France—Facing hopeless odds, the French army abandoned Paris today as the whole northern line east and west of the capital began to crumble.

An official French communique admitted that French troops protecting Paris "have retired from various parts of the city."

Semi-official spokesmen admitted that Montmedy was gravely menaced and observers predicted an early end to French resistance unless some "miracle" such as an American declaration of war occurs.

(Editor's Note: The German high command has already announced the fall of Montmedy.)

Paris was abandoned to save it from needless destruction, the communique said. The French government is now moving out of

Stand Firm, Reynaud's Plea to France

NEW YORK—(UP)—An appeal by Premier Paul Reynaud for the French people to stand firm was broadcast today from a radio station somewhere in France. Reynaud urged them to fight for the liberty and honor of their country.

sador William C. Bullitt, in Paris, who informed the state department in Washington that the German armies "are inside the gates of Paris."

Bullitt's message was sent at 7 p. m. yesterday, Paris time, but it was not received by the state department until nearly 1 a. m. (EST) today.

Adolf Hitler ordered all Germany beflagged for three days and all church bells throughout the Reich to ring for 15 minutes today in celebration of the victory.

The German high command reported "complete collapse" of the Weygand line all along the 200-mile western front from the English channel to Montmedy, at the northwest end of the Maginot line.

Two deep German wedges behind the Maginot forts—constituting a grave threat to 1,000,000 men stationed in the great French fortifications on the Rhine—were driven overnight to Romilly, 65 miles southeast of Paris,

No 'Fifth Column' Arrests In City, FBI Office Says

Cleveland FBI headquarters today spiked rumors current in Mansfield that federal authorities have arrested a number of persons in the city for "fifth column" activities.

Denying that a single arrest had been made here, a representative of the Cleveland office of the FBI added that "the only thing right about that story is that it's all wrong."

Mansfield police said they knew of no government investigation in the city except a routine inquiry that resulted in the arrest of three aliens last week for illegal entry into this country.

It is believed that the case was the source of rumors which have spread like wildfire in the city. There were reports that 100 Communists and Nazis were arrested in Mansfield and taken to Cleveland, while another rumor said two or three prominent business men were taken into custody for alleged subversive activities.

2 AGE GROUPS PUZZLE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Old Past 70 and Young Just Past 18 Can't Be Cared For Under System.

Relief clients and juvenile offenders are not the only ones who create a social problem for the county commissioners and welfare workers. There are two other groups, virtually overlooked by the laws, who almost daily ask for help the county can't give them.

They are the feeble minded persons past 70 years old who are beyond the age limit accepted by state institutions, and the young people just past 18 with no income or family.

Aged persons with no means of support can usually get old age pensions, but a number of aged people past 70 are unable to care for themselves even with the help of pensions and they are a big problem for the commissioners.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, pointed out that the county home is already overcrowded and, besides, pension recipients are not accepted there.

That arrangement makes it almost impossible to care for feebleminded or mentally ill pensioners who will not be accepted at state hospitals under the present laws, he asserted.

The only solution, Mitchell said, is to have a guardian appointed to look out for the pensioner and see that he doesn't spend his money foolishly. Guardians in such cases are difficult to find

Form Big Problem.

Single persons who are just past the age when they can get aid for dependent children and still too young to get direct relief are the old big problem for the county.

Commissioner Mitchell said they are frequently asked to contribute funds for their support, especially when medical care is needed. The aid for dependent children funds are available to children under 18 who have no means of support.

"The county has no funds to provide for the unfortunate young people and the state provides nothing to help them. Unless jobs or homes can be found for them, they are left to find a living as best they can," the chairman said.

Redlegs Meet Rivals

Strengthened Dodgers Entertain Today; Tex To Toe Rubber.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE baseball spotlight will be focussed this week-end on the four-game collision of Cincinnati's Reds and Brooklyn's Dodgers at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in the hope that the violent struggle there will indicate the eventual National league champion.

Whether it will is open to question, but there never will be a more dramatic setting for a test of power between two strong teams that are virtually deadlocked for the lead.

The ball park, seating approximately 35,000 persons, has been sold out for today, tomorrow and Sunday and police reserves had to be summoned in Brooklyn yesterday to clear away thousands of fans clamoring for tickets in front of the Dodger offices.

The pennant fever Cincinnati developed last summer has been reduced to insignificance in the face of the ardor of Flatbush fans, who believe that the reinforcement by Outfielder Joe Medwick and Pitcher Curt Davis will enable Brooklyn to crush all other contenders.

Medwick was to take his place in the Dodger lineup today at leftfield, batting cleanup. Manager Leo Durocher had Tex Carleton, the no-hit nemesis of the Reds, groomed for the first pitching assignment against the champions. Bill McKechnie countered with Gene Thompson, the young righthander who has won eight games this spring.

Both leagues swung into action on new fronts today, the National league in the eastern sector and the American in the west.

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers staged a red-hot interlude yesterday while the other clubs were traveling and the Indians eventually triumphed 3-2 in ten innings.

The victory lifted the Tribe back into second place and gave Lefty Al Smith his sixth victory against one defeat, although he gave up 13 hits to the 10 collected by Cleveland.

Detroit's ragged efforts caught up with them in this one. Charley Gehringer hit a home run in the first and the Tigers got another run in the second. They had scoring chances in almost every inning thereafter and they loaded the bases with none out in the tenth.

Then Cleveland came to bat and Roy (Beau) Bell doubled. With two out Ben Chapman, who previously had tripled, doubled and singled, rapped an inconsequential grounder to Gehringer, who made two separate errors on the same play and let in a run.

* * *

The Indians opened a three-game series against the Philadelphia Athletics today. Manager Oscar Vitt gave righthander Joe Dobson a chance to get his first victory of the season. Jim Babich drew the mound assignment for the Mackmen.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)— Everything is ducky in Brooklyn—at the moment.

From Borough President to Barber the feeling is that the purchase of the slugging Medwick guarantees the National League pennant will fly from the ramparts of Ebbets Field, and that for the Dodgers to have to play the remainder of their schedule is but a useless and bothersome formality.

With the mighty Ducky on hand to bat in the clean-up position housewives have begun to sew on the frocks they plan to wear to the World series; taxicab drivers have turned their wits to thinking up new and more savoury epithets to hurl at the American leaguers in October; and children have started hoarding pennies against the price of a bleacher seat.

All of which puts Ducky Medwick in the toughest spot since the mighty Casey, with all of Mudville's bankroll at stake, strode to the plate. Probably a tougher spot, in fact, because Brooklyn is quite a few times larger than Mudville ever was, and its baseball fans are made of much sterner stuff.

Medwick cannot fail to deliver with that bat of his. That is, and expect to get out of Brooklyn alive. Brooklyn's baseball fanatics are not cut from the same cloth as those Detroit customers who showered Medwick with grapefruit, apples, lunch baskets and assorted edibles in that final World series game between the Cardinals and the Tigers in 1934.

* * *

When the Brooklyn boys and girls throw it is for keeps. A man cannot eat what they chunk unless he be a sword swallower or a glass eater. So it would behoove Ducky to start hitting and keep hitting. Brooklyn fans know the tremendous price the Dodgers paid for Ducky, and they will expect him to perform to the last penny of it.

Browns Take 2nd Position

Score Double Victory Over Dayton Club.

DAYTON —(AP)— Youngstown occupied second place in the Mid-Atlantic league standings today as the result of a double victory over Dayton last night.

The Browns took the first game, 3 to 1, in a thriller in which neither team scored until the 11th inning. Dayton finally cracked in the 13th frame, allowing two Youngstown runs on three errors and a ground rule double by Witte.

The second games was a 13 to 4 walkaway which ended after eight innings because of the midnight rule.

Charleston ended Portsmouth's winning streak at three games by trimming the Red Birds 10 to 6 at Portsmouth. The second game of a scheduled doubleheader was rained out

League-leading Canton added another victory to its list with a 10 to 5 decision at Akron. The Terriers had two four-run rallies, the first in the second inning on Akron errors and the other in the ninth on four hits.

Today's schedule: Youngstown at Dayton, Charleston at Portsmouth, Akron at Canton.

Picard, Revolta Lead Inverness Tourney

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO —(AP)— The country's greatest par-shattering golf tournament—the annual $6,400 Inverness four-ball matches—went into its second round today with 14 professionals chasing Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Revolta of Chicago, winners of the event last year and in 1935.

As the field of 16 snared 40 birdies in the opening round yesterday, the defending champions got the jump by turning in a six-under-par 65 to hand Ed Dudley and Billie Burke a four-down defeat. Under the Inverness scoring plan that gave Picard-Revolta a plus four rating, and Dudley-Burke a minus four as they went into today's two sessions.

* * *

Back of the leaders were Jimmy Demaret and Dick Metz with plus three, following their best-ball 64 which beat "Jug McSpaden and Lawson Little, the new national open king, three up. Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl turned in a two-up victory over Walter Hagen and Byron Nelson, and Horton Smith and Jimmy Thomson registered a one-up decision over Gene Sarazen and Clayton Heafner.

Picard led the birdie shooters through the first 18 with five sub-par holes, while Hagen, Guldahl and Dudley got four each. Little, appearing in his first tournament since winning the open crown, scored three birdies.

* * *

In today's double program the leaders were booked against Hagen-Nelson this morning, and Sarazen-Heafner this afternoon. Demaret-Metz had Dudley-Burke and Smith-Thomson as their foes, and Snead-Guldahl were to play Sarazen-Heafner and McSpadenLittle. Other matches were Smith-Thomson vs. McSpaden-Little and Hagen-Nelson vs. Dudley-Burke.

Vitt Amazed at Player 'Revolt' Seeking His Ouster

Veteran Men Carry Protest To President

Indians Confront Bradley on Return From Their Disastrous Eastern Campaign.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' management started an "investigation" of a players' revolt against Manager Oscar Vitt today, and called Vitt as the first witness. Alva Bradley, Tribe president, talked an hour with Vitt after 12 players, among them Pitcher Bob Feller, asked Bradley to fire Vitt.

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland baseball club, facing possible dismissal as the aftermath of a mass demand by players for his ouster, was called into conference with President Alva Bradley today.

Veteran players carried their protest personally to Bradley in a move believed unprecedented in major league baseball history. They told the president they could not win as long as Vitt remained at the helm, charging him with insincerity, ridiculing players and caustic public criticism.

Vitt expressed amazement when informed by reporters of the protest and at first believed it a joke. He declared he "had no reason to believe any member of the club has any enmity toward me."

"Nobody can say that I have not given 100 per cent in energy to the team," the gray-haired pilot declared. "I can't imagine what could have impelled them to do this. It looks as if somebody has been stirring up some trouble."

Bradley at first kept the meeting secret, but later admitted "a few of the boys wanted certain things corrected."

"Naturally I am going to look into the matter," Bradley added, "but until I have investigated thoroughly I can't say what action will be taken."

The Indians confronted the president on their return from a disastrous eastern trip where they dropped eight of 13 games. He refused to list the players who called on him, but it was learned authoritatively that most of the veterans were present. At least eight players were absent, including veterans Roy Weatherly, Beau Bell and Al Smith and rookies Joe Dobson, Lou Boudreau, Ray Mack, Clarence Campbell and Mike Naymick.

"They (the absentees) didn't want any part of the protest," a spokesman for the group declared, "and we were glad they didn't. We felt Bradley would be more impressed by the testimony of the fellows who have been around long enough to know what they're talking about."

Bob Feller, considered by some the best pitcher in baseball, was present at the meeting, one of the veteran players said.

"We are a good ball club and we've got a chance to win the pennant, but if he (Vitt) manages the team all year we'll be lucky to finish fourth," one player said.

Cleveland is now in second place, a game and a half behind the Red Sox.

Several incidents on the recent eastern trip were reported to have brought the complaints to a head and led to a discussion in a Boston hotel that resulted in the Bradley interview.

In one Boston game Feller was being hit hard and some of the players described Vitt's verbal reaction thus:

"Look at him! He's supposed to be my ace! I'm supposed to win a pennant with that kind of pitching."

Al Milnar, with eight victories, and Hal Trosky, slugging first baseman, also were loudly criticized by Vitt on the eastern swing, players said.

* * *

In the event Cleveland officials fire Vitt, it is believed that Coach Luke Sewell, former Indian catcher, will assume at least temporary charge of the team.

Watson, Scott to Wage Battle For Decathlon Championship

CLEVELAND —(AP)— If anyone takes the national decathlon title away from Western Reserve's Joe Scott this week-end, Big Bill Watson is figured the man to do it.

Even some of the Ohioan's closest admirers calculate the former University of Michigan track captain will spoil Scott's bid to become the second three-time champion.

For two years Watson was western conference titleholder in the broad jump, shot put and discus, and marks established by the sturdy negro in five of the gruelling ten events surpass anything done by the wiry Scott.

Joe, himself, has no idea of the outcome. He triumphed the last two years by all-around proficiency—except for mediocre performances in the 1,500-meter run—rather than by spectacular performances in any one event. But decathlon scoring is such that it greatly rewards outstanding performances in an additional event.

An arbitrary standard is set up for the ten trials with points awarded on the basis of how you do against present marks.

A decathlon performer may take firsts in several events, but if the time or distance is just ordinary, may lose the meet to a couple of near-record marks in other events.

Besides Scott and Watson, eight other versatile amateur track stars are in the race. Five events will be held Saturday and the other five Sunday. Only Harold Osborn, former University of Illinois ace, has won the decathlon three times.

Sandwiched between the two-day test of speed and stamina will be the Northeastern Ohio A. A. U. qualifier of 15 events, boasting an entry list of Big Ten, Ohio conference and state scholastic champions.

Scott amassed 6,671 points to annex the 1939 championship here, 175 more than his winning total the year before at Randall's Island, N. Y. Watson didn't enter either year in the decathlon "man killer" program which includes 100, 400 and 1,500-meter dashes, 110-meter hurdles, pole vault, high and broad jumps, javelin, discus and shot put.

Cancellation of the 12th Olympiad this summer in Finland as a result of European hostilities gives Cleveland the only decathlon in the nation this year.

McNeill Makes Bid for Title

GAMBIER —(AP)— Midwest intercollegiate tennis championships in men's singles and doubles are at stake today in final matches of the district qualifier for the national intercollegiate tournament.

The favorite for the title, Don McNeill of Kenyon college, matches strokes with fourth-seeded Chuck Shostrom of the University of Chicago in this morning's feature semi-final match. In the lower bracket, Billy Talbert of the University of Cincinnati takes on Seymour Greenberg of Northwestern, Big Ten champion.

In doubles semi-finals, McNeill and Bruce Bothwell of Kenyon meet George Greenberg and Bill Clifford of Northwestern, and Shostrom and Jergenson of Chicago university play their teammates, Charles Sawyer and Bill Atkinson.

Besides McNeill, Talbert, Greenberg and Shostrom, players already qualified for the national tournament at Philadelphia June 25 are: Max Shane, Kalamazoo; Jerry Clifford, Northwestern; Dick McFarlane, Ohio State, and Cal Sawyier, Chicago.

SCORING a smashing 4 to 1 victory over the City News, last week's league leaders, the Tucker Furniture foursome took over the number one position in The News-Journal Class "B" golf league last night following loop matches at Possum Run.

The Tucker outfit won three out of four matches with Ferguson turning in a 39 to tie Arntz of the Central Fruit team for low-scoring honors in yesterday's matches.

Tinkey Lumbers jumped into second place by blanking the News-Journal foursome 5 to 0. They now share the second position with the Junior Association of Commerce team, which barely edged out the Bissman club by a 3 to 2 tally.

Other scores in last night's match-play was the 4 to 1 decision gained by the Central Fruit outfit over the Elks club foursome.

Other low scorers were Treisch of the Tinkeys who turned in a "40" card and Oberlander, also of the Tinkey team, Ackley, City News, and Kelley, Tucker's, who paced off the nine holes in 41. Leidel of the second-place J. A. C. foursome tallied a 42.

Bird Pitcher Hurls 2-Hitter

Other Association Hurlers Have Good Day.

(By Associated Press)

The American Association had a pitchers' celebration last night. It wasn't designated as such in advance but soon became evident as—

Lee Sherrill of Columbus pitched a two-hitter, Harry Kimberlin of Toledo, a four-hitter, Charley Stanceau a six-hitter in returning Kansas City to first place, and Bob Kline of Milwaukee a one-hit job in 6⅓ inning of relief hurling.

Kimberlin got the only shutout, a 3 to 0 decision over Louisville. Richardson's scratch single was the only blow off Sherrill until the eighth inning when Legrant Scott hammered out a homer for Indianapolis' only run as the Red Birds won, 3 to 1.

At Milwaukee, Minneapolis started out well in defense of its first place standing and was ahead, 3 to 1, when Kline relieved Frank Makasky in the third inning. Milwaukee won, 6-3.

* * *

St. Paul's only run off Stanceu was unearned, but it gave the Saints a momentary lead over Kansas City which went scoreless for the first four innings, then won, 4 to 1.

COUNTY RELIEF COSTS DECLINE DURING MONTH

May Expenditures Decrease 10 Per Cent; $10,151 Used For Food, Shelter.

Reflecting the general economic improvements, Richland county's relief expenditures, exclusive of Shelby last month showed nearly a 10 per cent decrease, Relief Director J. V. Finney reported today.

Finney said a total of $10,151 was expended during May to provide food, clothing and shelter for indigent families, a decrease of $945 under the April expenditures of $11,097.

The case load, his report showed, totaled 1,584 persons on relief rolls at the end of May against 1,931 persons at the same time a month previous.

This is the lowest number of persons on relief rolls since last December, expenditures also dropping to a new low for the year.

A total of $5,211 was spent to provide for 915 persons in Mansfield, including $672 for medical service. The county's expenditures were listed as $4,939 with $524 for medical attention.

Administrative and non-administrative expense which included office rent, salaries, and supplies totaled $1,923, Finney said.

During the month, a total of 217 persons were laid off WPA rolls reducing the number employed on government projects in Richland county to 525, the report showed. A total of 62 persons were certified for work making a total of 325 awaiting assignment to projects

The WPA housekeeping aid project cared for 119 families in May spending 6,416 hours in the homes of indigent persons, assisting in housework.

Reports from the WPA sewing project, financed by the city, disclosed that 918 men, women and children's garments valued at $401 were made and turned over to relief officials for distribution to indigent families.

More than 10 tons of surplus commodities, purchased from the Surplus Commodities corporation were distributed to relief clients. These include flour, rolled oats, raisins, cornmeal, beans, lard, prunes and butter.

TAKE TANGIER

Spanish Troops Occupy City to Safeguard Independence.

MADRID —(AP)— Two divisions of Spanish troops and a Spanish destroyer occupied the international neutralized zone of Tangier, Morocco, today in a move which a foreign ministry spokesman said was taken to safeguard the independence and neutrality of the seaside resort city.

The occupation, which Spanish sources said came under police powers given Spain in a 1928 agreement affecting Tangier, met no resistance.

(In London, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch said the move was taken by an agreement with France.)

With Spain the only neutral left on the commission governing Tangier, it was said the belligerent commissioners found it difficult to transact business.

Manufacturers of flags reported this week that sales of the national emblem increased noticeably during the past month. One manufacturer explained the increased sales as "renewed patriotic spirit."

ITALY FILES PROTEST ON U. S. ATTITUDE

Ambassador Complains About Movement to Arouse Animosity.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Italian ambassador to the United States, Prince Colonna, today filed a formal protest with Secretary of State Hull against what he described as an anti-Italian campaign now being carried on in the United States.

Acting on instructions from Rome, the ambassador declared to Hull that there was a movement on foot here to arouse feeling in this country against Italy.

The ambassador, after leaving Hull's office went immediately back to the embassy. One of his secretaries, who accompanied him, said that the embassy shortly would issue the full text of the protest.

In view of President Roosevelt's announced policy of giving all aid "short of war" to the Allies the Italian protest was not expected to have any profound effect here.

For many months, the president and the state department attempted by diplomatic means to keep Italy out of the war. When Il Duce announced to his people last Monday that Italy had decided to throw in its lot with Germany, the reaction here was one of intense disappointment and even anger.

The president, in his speech only a few hours after the Italian declaration of war, described Mussolini's action as a "stab in the back" of a neighbor.

While no official reaction was immediately forthcoming, it was anticipated that the protest would be curtly rejected, as have been several German protests in the past over anti-Reich newspaper articles and speeches of administration officials, particularly Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes.

RENEWS DRIVE TO MEET QUOTA

Red Cross After Remaining $2,500 Fund Needed For War Relief Fund.

The Richland county Red Cross is making a determined effort to raise the remaining $2,500 needed to complete its doubled quota for war relief funds.

The chapter now has approximately $9,500 as the result of a campaign which got under way several weeks ago when the first quota of $6,000 was assigned Richland county. Officials are certain that the remainder of the $12,000 will be made up.

D. O. Meese, general chairman of the fund raising committee, said today that a solicitation will be made of groups that were not included in the first campaign.

Many persons in the city, he pointed out, have not contributed largely because they have not been solicited, and urged these persons to communicate with Red Cross headquarters.

Meese said that the $50,000,000 which the president has asked congress to appropriate for war relief, will be used largely to purchase surplus food commodities in this country that can be distributed in Europe. The Red Cross fund is being used largely for clothing, medical and hospital supplies.

About 80 members of the Cleveland section of the Illuminating Engineers' society and their wives were in Mansfield on their annual tour today.

They were scheduled to have luncheon at the Westinghouse plant and to make a tour of the plant in the afternoon. A program in the Westinghouse auditorium was on the schedule for late afternoon. The group will have dinner at the Westbrook Country club this evening.

W. F. White, manager of the Cleveland Westinghouse plant, is president of the society. The tour was in charge of F. C. Winkler, secretary of the engineering department of the Westinghouse plant in Cleveland and a member of the board of managers of the society.

SNOW IN JUNE FOR ELKHORN

Ski Jumping Tournament Set For Park Anniversary.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK, Colo.—(AP)—Elkhorn mountain is as bare of snow as an elk's horn. But on June 16 there will be 12 to 18 inches of snow on Elkhorn.

Clarence Graves says so. As chairman of a committee sponsoring a celebration of Rocky Mountain national park's 25th anniversary he has ordered a fleet of trucks and a miniature railway to haul tons of snow to Elkhorn. A ski jumping tournament June 16 highlights the celebration.

HOME BUSINESS GIVES TRADERS REASSURANCE

Steels Lead Upward Trend of Two to Five Points on Stock Market.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Domestic business prospects overshadowed bearish war news in today's stock market and leaders put on one of the best rallies since the May relapse.

With steels in front, gains of 2 to 5 points were widely distributed after a slightly lower opening.

Offsetting war news was the belief the market was "oversold" in view of the earnings picture for numerous industries that stand to benefit from defense spending.

Bonds and commodities turned up with stocks.

Conspicuous shares on the advance were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Great Northern, American Woolen preferred, International Paper & Power preferred, Loft, American Smelting, Du Pont, Press Steel Car and Foundry.

It was believed profits for the steelmakers in the current three months would run fromm 10 to 20 per cent above the initial quarter.

Noted was the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing a pickup this week in retail spending throughout the country. Federal reserve figures for the week ended Wednesday revealed a rise of $12,000,000 in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans.

Paris Falls to Nazis As French Hope Fades

Hitler Legions Launch Bold Attack on Maginot Line Encircling Famous Defense Forts.

and to Saint Dizier, 125 miles southeast of the French capital.

The fact that Associated Press staff men, already moved from Paris to the provisional seat of the government at Tours, were getting ready to move again indicated that the French government also might be preparing to flee farther south ahead of the onrushing Nazi columns.

Those columns, thrusting deep into France on both sides of the capital in spite of what the French termed an "orderly withdrawal," launched incredibly swift-moving drives on their eastern wing that held an ominous threat to outflank the Maginot line.

German reports spoke of the collapse of large French units.

Italy, meanwhile, reported its first land action, a successful defense against a French attack on Galista Hill, 36 miles northwest of Turin on the Alpine frontier, and claimed to have scored hits on two enemy submarines in the Mediterranean.

The Fascist high command also claimed the capture of a number of English officers in repulsing an attack in Italian north Africa; defeat of a tank-supported Allied attack on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, and successful aerial operations over southeastern France, Tunisia and on the Red Sea.

Delayed since 2 p. m. (EST) yesterday, Bullitt's message indicated the Nazi blitzkrieg had attained its objective on the ninth day of the major offensive in northern France.

Sorely pressed France turned to the United States and democracies the world over with pleas for material support and "clouds of warplanes" to match the aerial spearheads of the deep Nazi drives.

Britain responded immediately with a pledge to "give the utmost in her power" and made good the word by drawing men and arms from the island's home defenses to hurl them back onto the continent from which they have been driven twice—from Norway and from Flanders—now to shoulder up with the French around Paris, which was declared 'open" and thus not a legitimate object of devastation.

The Germans, looking beyond Paris, gave indications of moving on the provisional capital at Tours. Roughly, they already have enveloped 18,000 to 19,000 of France's 212,600 square miles.

Adolf Hitler declared the Norwegian campaign finished with the withdrawal of the last Allied troops from the vicinity of wrecked Narvik in the Arctic and said German destruction of 144 enemy war vessels and transports made one of the brightest pages of German military history.

The Royal Air Force pounded at objectives in France, Africa and Norway for the third successive day, the air ministry announced last night.

Heavy bombers struck at Nazi troop concentrations and communications in France from the channel coast to the Belgian frontier, the ministry said, declaring that important roads and railways were destroyed, that an ammunition train was destroyed near Saissault and that more than 1,000 incendiary and explosive bombs were dropped on a woods at La Mare.

In the Mediterranean and Red sea areas, R. A. F. bombers were reported officially to have blown up the powerhouse, gasoline dump and barracks at the Italian base near Assab, Eritrea, and blasted an ammunition dump at Diredawa, Ethiopia.

Italian bombers staged five air raids on the British Mediterranean naval base of Malta yesterday, the British reported, although details were lacking.

London Shocked But Not Surprised By Fall of Paris

(By International News Service)

LONDON—German occupation of Paris—the gravest news of nine months of warfare—came as a profound shock today to London, although the sad tidings had been entirely expected in view of events of the past 48 hours.

Once more, in all sections of the British capital, there was sharp realization that the German military steam-roller had moved with machine-like precision and overwhelmed, despite incalculable losses, the stoutest resistance yet offered.

Over all obstacles, it was agreed, the German forces progressed almost to the hour of their pre-arranged time table.

In London there was no attempt, official or otherwise, to pretend that the immediate outlook of the Allies is not extremely dark, or that still more shocks are not to be expected.

But at the same time there was reiterated determination to face the future with courage and to continue to extend every possible assistance to France.

Some British circles declared some such shock was necessary for Britain to rouse itself to a supreme war effort and the London Evening Standard keynoted this sentiment in an editorial which said:

"Democracy cannot win its battles by watching. We must become a nation in arms."

A new British promise of "utmost aid" was sent to France along with a pledge of the "indissoluble union of our two peoples and our two empires."

London newspapers splashed French Premier Paul Reynaud's final appeal to the United States for aid across their front pages while latest dispatches from the front indicated the increasing gravity of the military situation.

FRENCH FACING HOPELESS ODDS AGAINST NAZIS

Say Only 'Declaration of War By United States' Can Keep Them Fighting.

threatened Tours.

Semi-official quarters here stressed France's lack of men and materials although the army still is fighting desperately.

On the extreme western front, the Germans have massed armored and motorized elements "to a degree of hitherto unknown in warfare."

These elements are beginning to overwhelm the French, it was said, who are dying by thousands "in attempting to fight off tanks with rifles, pistols and even their bare fists."

A semi-official statement said: "These divisions are beginning to overwhelm our troops.

"On the eastern extremity of the front of actual battle, our divisions succeeded until today in maintaining intact the Montmedy pivot of the Maginot line and in holding the enemy onrush in the Argonne and eastern Champagne.

"If the enemy throws into line his fresh divisions still held in reserve, taking of the Montmedy position seems inevitable."

These semi-official statements all stressed that every French division is stretched out in a thin red line, lacking depth or reserves. No reserves and no more material is available, it was said.

"France needs tanks, planes and war material at once, not next week, if the fight for democracy is going to continue in Europe," a spokesman said.

"Something must be done if the hour of resurrection is to sound."

Neutral observers interpreted this as a plain warning that some definite statement of immediate aid from the United States, or a declaration of war, alone can keep France fighting.

"On the vast Champagne front, the enemy armies are progressing, fighting toward the south.

"Their most advanced elements appear to be pointed toward Romilly in one sector and St. Dizier in another.

"Our fighting and army organization continue to be in extremely good order."

The last evacuees left Paris at midnight when the police and civil guard, acting under orders, closed the Paris gates.

This step, it was reported, was taken in view of the strength of German pressure, particularly on the western suburbs.

The French army, according to pre-arranged plans, then began to fall back on either side of the city towards a line running southward.

It was learned on the most reliable authority that the Allies plan to continue fighting against Germany and that Britain is sending France "massive aid" immediately.

The French communique stated the retirement from the capital was carried out to spare it the "devastation which its defense would have brought."

The communique was issued while all France awaited the reaction of the United States to the "final" plea of Premier Paul Reynaud for aid against Germany.

"The French command, in renouncing direct defense of the capital and in maintaining it as an open city, desired to spare it the devastation which defense would have brought, estimating that no valuable strategic result would justify the sacrifice of Paris.

REYNAUD ASKS 'PLANE CLOUDS'

Powerful Appeal Made to U. S. By France in Hour of Greatest Need.

now enough, Reynaud intimated.

"Today," he said, "we are at a more advanced point. Today the life of France is at stake—at least France's essence of life.

"Our fight, each day more painful, has no further sense if in continuing we do not see even far away the hope of a common victory growing. . . .

"It is necessary that clouds of warplanes from across the Atlantic come to crush the evil force which dominates Europe.

"Despite our reverses, the power of the democracies remains immense. We have the right to hope that the day is coming when all that power will be placed in force.

"That is why we maintain hope in our hearts."

The French army, now withdrawn from Paris and falling back before the Germans along a wide front, always has been "the vanguard of the army of the democracies," said Reynaud.

"The world," he said, "must know of the sufferings of France. The world must know what they owe her. The hour has come for them to pay their debt. . . .

"France, wounded, has the right to turn to other democracies and to say: 'We have claims on you.'

"None of these with a sense of justice can deny this. But it is one thing to approve and another thing to act.

"We know what a high place ideals hold in the life of the great American people. Will they hesitate still to declare themselves against Nazi Germany?"

to me that we stand here and see this thing go on and do nothing. I think we should immediately redouble our efforts to send more planes, more ships, more arms, more ammunition."

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, one of the leading Republican presidential candidates, observed: "The appeal is a moving one, but it is one that would be difficult to respond to."

Sen. Henrik Shipstead (F-L. Minn.), said: "I don't see how we could do anything in time to do any good, even if we wanted to, and decided to go to war. We have no army and we have no planes."

Chairman Sol Bloom, of the house foreign affairs committee, said: "I sympathize fully with France. But we cannot do the impossible, of course. We cannot go beyond what the law says. Men we cannot and will not send."

Others voiced similar sentiments . . . those who would comment at all. Many members of congress refused to comment, saying that the matter was one for the White House and state department.

President Roosevelt and his national defense council worked feverishly to speed up private production and delivery of government supplies to the Allies.

So far, however, only 224 army and navy planes have found their way into Franco-British hands and the military command is reluctant to part with many more.

COUNTY CENSUS SHOWS 73,643

10-Year-Gain of 7,741 Shown By Preliminary Reports on Population.

Harper said the increase in population in the county was approximately five per cent above the national average which has been shown at 6.5 per cent to date.

It was pointed out that revised preliminary figures set Mansfield's population at 37,024 against a previously announced figure of 36,895.

The unofficial count showed an increase in Mansfield itself of approximately 12 per cent during the past decade as compared with a 20 per cent gain shown during the 10-year period between 1920 and 1930.

Harper said that the census report was complete in the county including villages and townships, but that figures would be subject to a final audit. Official figures will be announced from Washington later in the year.

With the census enumerators finished with their jobs in the various districts in the county, Harper said that all that remained to be reported was the number of farms in Richland county.

Harper said Plymouth township figures which set the population count at 1,469, included the part of the village of Plymouth in Richland county. A report of the village population would be announced from Washington when figures are compiled with those of Huron county. Part of the village is located in Huron county.

Encirclement Tactics Again Used Successfully By Nazi Forces.

er moving up and down and it was assumed the French were not using it as an observation post.

The historic landmark therefore was saved from shrieking shells and bombs which might have toppled the structure.

This is the first time since 1870 that enemy troops entered the capital of France.

The Germans after crossing the Seine and Marne on both sides of the city, slowly closed a ring around it, but left a hole open on the south side to give French troops a last chance to get out and retire towards Orleans and Chartres.

Dietrich said that a German victory is assured regardless of any outside aid that might be hastened to the western European powers.

The press chief declared:

"We have never had a critical hour since May 10. Germany has remained on top."

Since Dietrich made this statement within an hour after leaving Hitler's headquarters, it can be assumed that his words accurately reflect the self-assurance and confidence of high German quarters.

German quarters contended, furthermore, that facts supporting his words presage a "quick end from a military point of view" for both France and England.

Without directly mentioning American support to the Allies through the sale of war material and planes, Dietrich declared:

"Nothing on earth can now prevent an Allied defeat.

UMPER WHEAT CROP SEEN FOR RICHLAND AGAIN

ood Weather Next 2 Weeks to Pave Way for Harvest July 1, Agent Says.

Richland county farmers are ie to begin harvesting another imper wheat crop about July 1. it the price they will get for it ipends largely upon the turn the ar takes in Europe.

For the second consecutive year, e outlook is for a better-than-terage yield in the county and ate, and the market is already nsiderably better than last year.

The present market price is ightly above 80 cents a bushel, ut it is expected to drop ightly when the new crop begins to pour into elevators. Should the war continue in Europe, however, the price may go igher again, crop experts said.

Barring severe hail and wind orms before harvest time, Richnd county farmers will have one their best crops in recent years, unty Agent George B. Ganyard ad. Heavy rain in the past few ys has caused the grain to lodge some sections of the county and reatened rust and smut damage, it good weather for the next two eks should cause the grain to pen generally in good condition, nyard said.

Sow 32,000 Bushels.

Richland county farmers last ll sowed about 32,000 bushels of heat, a slightly larger acreage an in the preceding year due to e increased federal AAA allotnt for the county.

While the heavy rainfall this nth has damaged wheat and rn, it boosted the hay and pasre prospects, and farmers in is section are expected to have nty of feed for their livestock.

Dems Still Lack 4 Committeemen, Meeting Delayed

G. A. Baer, chairman of the Richland county Democratic central committee, was expected to set the date today for the annual election of an executive committee chairman and other officers by the 93 executive committeemen.

Baer said four of the 92 central committeemen have failed to name their choices for the executive committee and unless they are heard from today they will be requested again to choose executive committeemen to represent their precincts.

The central committee can serve on the executive committee or name someone else.

Atty. John C. O'Donnell is expected to be chosen again as executive committee head at the election which probably will be held within the next week.

ORDERS WATER LINE MATERIALS

City Awards Two Contracts to Buy $5,421 in Supplies For Main Extensions.

The city board of control today awarded two contracts totaling $5,421.90 for pipe and fittings to be used in extending the municipal water distribution system.

Specifications call for the delivery of 3,600 feet of cast iron pipe and 17 valves and 15 valve boxes.

Contract for delivery of the pipe was awarded to the Central Foundry company, New York City, on the firm's low bid of $4,924.

Delivery of the valves and fittings is to be made by the Hardware and Supply company, Akron, which received the contract on the supplies for a price of $497.90.

The Akron firm was the fourth lowest of seven bidders. Three lower bids were rejected because they were incomplete, Mayor William J. Locke said. They were the Hughes Supply company, Mansfield, and the Mueller company, Louisville, Ky., both of which submitted a price of $487.30, and A. P. Smith company, East Orange, N. J. which quoted a price of $492.

The supplies were purchased for main extensions on sections of Overlook avenue, Fairlawn avenue, Yale drive, Greenlawn avenue, Superior street, East Raleigh avenue, Andover road, Overlook road, Coleman road, Winwood drive, and Bowman street between West Fourth and West Sixth streets.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1940.

Liberty is a highly prized thing;
Despised is the yoke and thralldom's sting
Symbol of freedom is the flag we fly,
A field of blue from the wide and open sky,
Hung with the glowing shields of starry night,
Striped with Niagara's plunging torrent white,
Streaked with the blood-red-fire of the setting sun,
From all of these is freedom's banner spun.
Naught stays the joy of one returning home
At his first sight of the flag from o'er the foam.
And to the world clouded by battle's pall
The flag promises tyranny will fall.

—David Orme.

Our Flag, Symbol of Freedom

ON THIS one hundred and sixty-third anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the Flag of the United States of America, the principles of democracy and human liberties which this flag symbolizes seem to be under more serious threat than at any time within the memory of living men.

The leadership of conflicting schools of thought have massed their forces in a terrific struggle to determine whether a so-called "civilized world" shall hereafter be dominated by brute force rather than by laws based on justice, freedom and belief in the brotherhood of man.

Whatever may have been the faultiness of its administration and the human weaknesses of some of its members, the high idealism of American democracy cannot be doubted, but it still remains to be proved whether "any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure," as was pondered by Abraham Lincoln more than seventy-five years ago.

Faith in people, and in their capacity for intelligent self-government provided inspiration for the founding of a government such as this, as opposed to the principles of inherited or assumed authority of individuals or "the state."

The totalitarian form of government, as it is being exemplified in Germany and Italy, is entirely out of accord with the ideas of people in this country whose experience has been with a government "of the people, by the people, for the people."

Flag day, in its national observance, presents an excellent occasion for individual re-dedication to the principles of patriotic Americanism—and if, at some future time, you find yourself barred from heaven it will NOT be because you saluted the American Flag!

Uncle Sam's Sphere

ONE of the surest things in the world right now is that the United States, with all its resources and brotherliness, cannot protect everybody and everything. The way a lot of things are going, we shall do pretty well to save ourselves and, possibly, our immediate friends and neighbors.

This diminished ambition applies particularly to Canada, whose geographical, economic and ideological fate is firmly tied to ours. Next come Mexico, and Central America, and the West Indies, with at least the northern tier of South American states. We and they must hang together, whether we like it or not.

But we are not going to fight anybody for Antarctica and adjacent lands. And mulling over the situation in the broad Pacific and on westward, we are inclined to hedge a little on American protectorates for some of our friends' possessions in the Indian ocean. We might help there diplomatically, but would we fight for anybody else's islands? Are we sure we would fight even for the Philippines, which are technically ours for a few years yet?

This sort of mental exploration leads naturally to the question of Japan and China. We want to stand by the Chinese, a friendly and potentially great nation, with which we can co-operate. But do we want to fight Japan? Common sense suggests that we should do our best to restore friendliness and insure peace with that country, if it can be done on tolerable terms, and keep Japan from an active military alliance with the big dictatorship countries.

Fires Please Take Notice

FIRES have such an odd knack of breaking out at unexpected times that the advisability of closing one of Mansfield's fire stations for the summer may be questioned.

Considering, also, that Mansfield's inadequacy of fire protection—even with four stations in operation—has resulted in high insurance rates, the idea of closing one station for vacation convenience doesn't seem to be quite the way a good-sized city should handle such a situation.

Also to be considered is the fact that the No. 4 station was originally planned to serve an industrial and residential section of the city to which access from other fire stations was made difficult because of railroad crossings and distance.

When No. 4 fire station was placed in the northeast part of the city, as an added protection for the millions of dollars of industrial investment in that section, the need for it was much less than it has since become. This is a matter that should receive some further thought before safety is sacrificed to meet exigencies of vacation allotments.

Arizona's Indian population has risen since 1930 from 29,497 to 51,730—and if this keeps on there may soon be enough Indians for the country to be given back to.

The old home of Jesse James, at Kearney, Mo., has been wired for electricity—which sounds more like the Tyrone Power influence.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—While 50 per cent of America and 99 per cent of those in Washington are talking war and defense, the departments of commerce and agriculture are trying to get ready to discuss, at least, one of the biggest questions that arises during warfare: "What about relief?"

Before this problem can even be approached, another question must be asked and answered: How far can A. Hitler go in feeding his captive peoples?

The only answer you'll get around here is "Not very far." In the first place, it's axiomatic that where war goes, famine follows. Industry and agriculture become paralyzed and what there is is turned into keeping the conquering armies conquering.

This war—or the total phase of it—began before Belgian, Dutch and French housewives had a chance to start their vast home industry of canning. The grain was not ready to harvest. There is scant reason to believe that these peoples will fare as well as they did in the months and years following August, 1914.

Fed 10 Million.

AND here's what happened after that fateful month. In the next ten years, approximately five and a half billion dollars was spent on world relief as a result of war. In Belgium alone, Herbert Hoover's relief commission—the most amazing charity organization that ever arose out of a holocaust—spent nearly one billion dollars feeding 10,000,000 people for four and a half years.

Mr. Hoover and his aides got permission of the British to run the blockade; got an agreement from the Germans not to confiscate relief food and clothing, set up 5,000 committees in the conquered territory and 2,000 more scattered over the world as procurement groups.

Even if the Nazis could show the same genius for reconstruction in the lands they have taken over as they have for blitzkrieg, the problem still is one that may have the Americas gasping before the world can be righted.

Russian Famine Rumored.

INTO the hat from which they must draw the answer, government officials are tossing these factors:

1. France, which couldn't take care of a comparative handful of Spanish refugees BEFORE the war started, now is overrun with more than 5,000,000 homeless, hungry people.

2. Spain is unable to help.

3. All of the Balkan surpluses are being absorbed to feed the armies.

5. England, though its reserves are plentiful, has been terribly hard hit by the loss of foodstuffs from Denmark and Holland.

6. Denmark and Holland, with supplies of foodstuffs shut off, will have to start slaughtering their livestock immediately.

7. Finland still needs relief. So does Norway. And because of the blockade, Sweden enters the tragic picture, too.

So far, there have been only isolated suggestions in official Washington circles of a major relief program, but the fact that two departments are mapping out the possibilities on reams of paper is an indication of their certainty that the question will arise shortly.

So far the survey of present conditions indicates that the commodities required will be almost the same as in the World war and about the same that the Red Cross is now purchasing in its relief drive.

THE EGGS ARE STARTING TO HATCH

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The name that most of the reviewers lingered over in their judgments of "Louisiana Purchase" was Carol Bruce, a pretty 19-year-old girl who has something of a story behind her. Her appearance on Broadway as Beatrice in Mr. Irving Berlin's and Mr. Morrie Ryskind's pleasant fable of Louisiana politics must be marked up as something of a triumph for the judgment of a New York lawyer whose name is Martin Spector.

Mr. Spector, known as "Mike" to his friends, had known Miss Bruce's father for years. They were old friends. While talking one day the girl's father asked Spector if he knew of a good agent for his girl, who had been told that she possessed a likable voice and who was desirous of trying for musical comedy.

Mike ascertained that the girl was modeling sweaters at a place in New York. He went to see her. They had a long talk together, and Spector promised to give her the benefits of his judgment and experience.

HAVING a lawyer for a benefactor was a break. It wasn't long before Miss Bruce appeared in the supper room of a Manhattan hotel for $50 a week. From there she went into NTG's "Midnight Sun," which isn't running anymore, for $100 a week. From there Spector guided her up several additional rungs, turning down one bid by Paramount for $350 a week. "She needs only one good show on Broadway, and we can add another cypher to her salary," he said.

Apparently she had it. She got a break by being practically the only new name in the cast. Victor Moore and Zorina and the others are stars, but there is nothing especially new to write about them. They gave expert performances, just as everyone knew they would, but that much has been said of them so frequently that it is no longer news. When Miss Bruce, with her pleasant voice and pleasant manner appeared out of nowhere everybody began asking questions. Everybody liked her. She has a toe-hold now, and if she doesn't hold it she will have only herself to blame.

WE RAN into a big fellow we admire as much as anyone we ever saw the other day—Freddy Fitzsimmons, who pitches for the Brooklyn Dodgers. It was the first time we had seen Fitz since he was tossing them high, wide and handsome for the Giants, back in the old days when he and Hub and Parmelee were prime, and the Giants were winning. Fitz, for one thing, has the most unusual delivery, and one of the most interesting to watch, in all baseball. When he winds up he merely waves his right hand and wrist in a circle, then turns his back to the batter and looks at second base. Fitz hasn't been beaten this year yet. As the ball players say, he is 4 for 4, which means he has four wins in four starts. What has he got, now that he is 39 and approaching the athlete's borderline? The answer is heart. It's as big as all out doors. On the days he works he hangs that heart of his out on a line. We ourselves are a Giant fan, but not on the days Fitz pitches. In his career (which, during the offseasons, is devoted to a California chicken ranch) he has won 196 major league games—just four to go before he reaches the coveted 200-game total which is the goal of all moundsmen.

Listen, World!

Don't Take It Out On the Kid!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE WERE talking about Parents—1904 model versus 1940. And the vote was practically unanimous that the current crop is a much more cheerful and companionable breed than those of yester-year.

For one thing, they are certainly easier on the eye, these youthful home-builders of today, and far more charming as human beings. It may shock Gram to hear Junior call his Mother by her first name . . . and razz Dad as lustily as he does his boy friends. But that very familiarity makes for a healthy frankness we never knew as youngsters. The kids can not only discuss the pestier facts of life with the Home Guard but can frequently hand out a few helpful hints that quite escaped the class of 1883. So, taking it by and large, I'm all for the existing set-up. And yet—

In one way, I think the old-fashioned fathers and mothers made the modern models look like a bunch of peevish pikers and that was in their attitude toward the Doubt and Discouragement which inevitably infect adult life.

Mind you, I've no illusions about Gram and Gramp being saints. They could and did battle with all the gusto of a Donnybrook Fair. They gabbled, gossiped and grouched with delightful abandon. But there was one rule which was scrupulously observed in all self-respecting households—

They kept their serious worries and disillusionments to themselves . . . and didn't hang them on the kids. Life was a grim affair to most of them. They literally counted pennies, scrimped and saved, patched and turned. And current notions to the contrary, the future was just as vague and menacing to them as it is to us today. But they kept it to themselves. That was their burden to bear as adults; it was not to be shared with Youth.

It's a pity the modern parent can't be equally sporting. The toughest thing for any youngster to take is Doubt. He can endure and even enjoy Hardship if it is put up to him as a challenging adventure. He can face Reality with the courage and poise of a veteran. But Doubt poisons him . . . disillusionment robs him of those most priceless weapons—his own Faith, Spunk and Enthusiasm. Sneers are a deadlier peril to Youth than sawed-off shotguns.

If you doubt this, look at and listen to Young America. Here is as wholesome and intelligent a bunch of youngsters as the nation ever produced. They are, for the most part, eager to work and good natured about reverses. Underneath their seemingly hard-boiled exterior they are as sensible to decency, as gallant and generous as any of their predecessors.

But they bear one mark which is a shameful indictment of their elders—they are cynical before their time. They have been bred in an atmosphere of fear and failure which their parents took no pains to disguise. Doubt blights their young gaze . . . taints their young philosophy.

THEIR PARENTS HAVE INFECTED THEM WITH THEIR OWN BEWILDERMENT AND LACK OF FAITH.

Which is just about as contemptible a thing as one generation can do to another!

IF YOU'VE GOTTA BE CRY-BABIES, MOM AND DAD, AT LEAST HAVE THE DECENCY TO DO YOUR WHIMPERING IN PRIVATE. DON'T TAKE IT OUT ON THE KID!

Story of the Stars and Stripes

Time: June 14th, 1777.
Place: Philadelphia.
Dramatis Personnae: The Continental Congress.

A special committee had just reported on a suggested design for the flag.

"The stars of the flag," it was explained, "represent a new constellation rising in the west. The idea is taken from the great constellation Lyra, which in the hands of Orpheus, signifies harmony. The blue in the field is taken from the edge of the Covenanters Banner of Scotland, significant of the covenant of the United States against oppression. The stars are disposed in a circle, symbolizing the perpetuity of the Union, the ring signifying eternity. The thirteen stars show the number of the united colonies and denote subordination of the States of the Union as well as equality among themselves. The red, the color which in the Roman days was a symbol of defiance, denotes daring, and the white purity."

After which the Continental Congress resolved:

"That the flag of the thirteen United States shall be of thirteen stripes of alternate red and white, with a union of thirteen stars of white in a blue field, representing the new constellation."

Such is the background of Flag day, anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as our national ensign, which brings up memories of our youth and traditional tales in which figure Betsy Ross, and George Washington, and how we came to have the five-pointed star.

Impetus was imparted to the universal celebration of Flag day by Professor George Bloch, of New York City, where on June 14th, 1889, he held patriotic exercises.

About four years later, the ball of official recognition was started rolling when the mayor of Philadelphia, urged by the Society of Colonial Wames of Pennsylvania, had the flag displayed on all public buildings.

Further, it was not long before everybody was acclaiming the resolution offered by the president of the society, Mrs. Elizabeth Duane Gillespie, a direct descendant of Benjamin Franklin, that June 14th should thereafter be known as Flag day, during which our national pennant should be unfurled from every household and place of business, private as well as public.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Allied and Roosevelt diplomacy struggled behind the scenes until almost the last minute to keep Mussolini out of war.

It was on a Monday that the Italian dictator shouted his hoarse-voiced proclamation of war. And as late as the preceding Saturday, the French were still dickering with him. At that time they offered him the island of Corsica, birthplace of Napoleon, as well as the important African colony of Tunisia, plus French Somaliland with its Red sea port of Djibuti.

But Mussolini wanted more. He had already demanded the six Alpine departments extending from the French Riviera to Geneva. And this time he also demanded that the French pay him for the cost of mobilizing the Italian army.

This was too much for the French to swallow and Mussolini undoubtedly knew it.

Real fact probably was that he could not afford to antagonize Hitler by failing to declare war. A Nazi victory looked too certain, in which case Mussolini would have been left facing the triumphant and resentful hordes of Nazi Germany just across the Brenner Pass.

Note—A lot of people think Mussolini will face an aggressive Nazi army anyway.

Roosevelt's Moves.

ROOSEVELT'S attempts to keep Italy out of the war at first were confined to notes and persuasive diplomacy.

However, the president came to realize that nothing counted with Mussolini except (1) what he was going to get in return for keeping the peace; and (2) whether he was going to be on the winning side.

Accordingly, the last week's announcements from the White House that the United States was selling army and navy planes direct to the Allies, plus surplus army equipment, was calculated to have a double effect. One was the actual help it would give the Allies. The other was the hope that Mussolini would be influenced by the fact that the United States was talking in deeds, not mere words, and that these deeds might turn an Allied victory.

Note—In private conversations with his advisers the president has been most pessimistic about the chances of France blocking the Nazi advance. Seldom has he been so discouraged.

Bull's-Eye Farley.

MEETING Senator Jimmy Byrnes shortly after a news story reported him to be the president's choice for running mate, genial Jim Farley said, "Howdy, Mr Vice President!"

"Howdy, Mr. President," retorted Byrnes, grinning.

"Now that, Jimmy," said Farley with a broad smile, "is one of the most intelligent things I've heard in Washington in a long time."

Super-Bund In U. S. A.

BEHIND the president's sudden request for funds to employ 500 additional FBI agents were some amazing Fifth Column discoveries.

One of the most sensational was the existence of a super-Bund that apparently is of recent origin and has a hand-picked membership in ten cities with large German-origin populations.

First clues were uncovered by Dies committee investigators. After some weeks of quiet probing, with the aid of paid informers, the investigators reported to the committee that the organization "makes Fritz Kuhn's outfit look like a peanut show; it is the cleverest and most sinister subversive group we have encountered."

They also reported that "whether knowingly or unwittingly, we don't know which yet," certain industrialists have co-operated with the secret organization in order to fight labor unions.

"There is big money behind this movement," one investigator reported, "and it's not coming from Germany."

The cities listed by the Dies agents as containing branches of the super-Bund are St. Louis, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Baltimore. Principal organizers were reported to be German-American war veterans who stress the argument that "German blood supersedes everything else, including American citizenship."

In effect, the organization is a branch of the German National Socialist (Nazi) party. All members must swear an oath of allegiance to Hitler and the immediate program is to spread pacifistic, anti-Ally and anti-Semitic propaganda.

Italian Prospects.

UNITED STATES military observers, generally accurate regarding Hitler's war moves, are not quite sure how to gauge the Italo-French conflict.

Briefly, the situation is this: The French have an excellent army along the Alps, which is also a difficult terrain for the Italians to pass. However, the Fascists have a superior air force, while the French are weakened by the loss of hundreds of planes on the western front. And in this war, air superiority counts for everything.

At sea, the combined French and British fleets are superior to the Italian. But—and this is important—the Italians are far superior in submarine and in the air. The French and British would have real difficulty in getting close enough to the Italian coast to bombard its cities.

Earlier in the war, the French said they welcomed an Italian offensive. But now, weakened and fighting desperately in the west, it is another story.

Political Chaff.

THE CIO, torn with internal strife over whether to follow John L. Lewis against Roosevelt, will hold a special convention after the Democrats nominate in July. . . . Frank Waltman, GOP press nabob, has arranged a special stunt to open the Philadelphia convention. A ceremony broadcast from Independence Hall will carry the sound of the Liberty Bell around the world, while Richard Crooks, Metropolitan opera star, will sing a song especially written for the convention, "Cradle of Liberty." . . . The man who will place Senator Bob Taft in nomination will be Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo newspaper owned by Paul Block, who last week came out for Herbert Hoover. . . . Vice President Jack Garner apparently has decided his public career is over. He has sent to Uvalde pictures, files and other personal things he has never before shipped home.

Modern Hay-Making

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT IS TIME to cut alfalfa. The stalks are long and rank. The dark green foliage lodges eastward. I noticed the racemes of lavender flowers peeping like conscious heads above the emerald field. I enjoyed the beauty of the spacious field and watched the farmer harvest what he thought a more tangible crop.

He is no common farmer. He always tries the most modern machines and experiments in different ways of using roughage. Last year I saw him cut a field of alfalfa and timothy with a common mower and a windrow attachment while it was wet from rain. He hitched a sturdy hay loader to the rear of his truck and hauled load after load to the silos where it was cut and blown into the round concrete receptacles. He cured 600 tons in this manner.

"It was a laborious task," he told me. "This year we have something better. If you want to see, go out to the field where those trucks are coming from. You can drive the whole way."

I easily found the place, for the gravel road was strewn all the way with short unwithered sprays of alfalfa hay. A man rode a high-wheeled rubber tired tractor with a mower attachment that cut a wide heavy swath. Behind the cutterbar was bolted a series of six steel springs turned up about fifteen inches high at the free end, each about 18 inches longer than the one before it. These rolled the new-cut swath into a neat windrow. Following close was a low machine that lifted the fresh moist grass into a cylinder of keen cutting knives and elevated it to the deep truck bed, just beside. This outfit was pulled along by the caterpillar tractor used earlier for plowing and later on for harvesting potatoes.

"That new machine saves most of the heavy work we had to do last year," he said. "The cost was high, but I believe it's worth it."

Back at the barn the load of cut alfalfa was blown into the silo. A drum of strong, sweet-smelling molasses was slowly fed through a pipe into the moving greens. In the cow barn I saw where moisture dripped rapidly from the closed silo doors and made a little pond of thick green liquid. "It's the best feed I've ever used," the farmer said.

I sighed as I left the place. "It won't be long," I thought, "until sweet scented meadow-cured hay will be unknown. Children of some future day will know only the legend of such antique farming."

More Warships of Smaller Tonnage Planned By U. S.

AUTHORITY TO RECAST FLEET BEING SOUGHT

War Situation Strengthens Sentiment Against Early Congress Adjournment.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Authority for recasting the projected fleet expansion program may be sought from congress, it was reported today, because of the object lessons which have marked the naval phases of Europe's war.

President Roosevelt, a usually well-informed source disclosed, is considering requesting permission to shift legally-fixed tonnage classifications so that a larger number of smaller and lighter warships could be built than was originally contemplated.

This hint of a reappraisal of navy plans gave an added fillip to steadily mounting congressional sentiment against adjourning on June 22.

Anti-adjournment forces used as another argument for staying here the 'new and last appeal" which Premier Reynaud of France addressed to the United States last night for help and "clouds of warplanes from across the Atlantic." The White House promptly expressed assurance that "everything is being done that possibly can be done."

Some lawmakers were of the opinion that the nation should go to greater lengths and offered new proposals for abandonment of the neutrality act.

On the other hand, a senate bloc was forming to fight any attempts to supply direct governmental military aid to the Allies. Members of this group made clear that they would not resist indirect aid along present lines.

On the question of recasting the 11 per cent fleet expansion plans, congressional consent would be necessary because the recently approved bill allocated 79,500 tons for aircraft carriers, 65,500 tons for cruisers, and 21,000 tons for submarines. The navy was given a 20 per cent leeway in shifting the classifications of vessels, but even greater latitude may be found necessary.

The sinking of two British aircraft carriers with a heavy loss of planes and equipment, naval circles explained, made it probable that the size of future American carriers would figure importantly in any program change.

American aircraft carriers now carry about 90 planes and have a tonnage of about 30,000. Some naval experts were reported urging that two carirers of 15,000 tons be built for every 30,000-ton one contemplated, so that the loss would not be so great if one was sunk. Smaller carriers likewise would make it possible to keep some in the Atlantic and some in the Pacific, if necessary.

One school of naval thought also favors construction of more and smaller cruisers, rather than fewer and larger ones.

The navy yesterday awarded contracts for $9,368,287 worth of machinery for nine submarines and three auxiliaries.

Other events yesterday related to defense or assistance for the Allies included:

Joint senate-house committee approval of legislation granting Mr. Roosevelt the requested authority to trade in surplus army guns to manufacturers for resale to France or Britain.

The senate's unanimous vote to include a $50,000,000 fund for Allied refugees in the pending relief bill.

President Roosevelt's conference with the national defense commission on speeding up production of war materials.

WON'T CLOSE FIRE STATION

Crafton Says Chief's Plan For Vacations Out; Will Talk With Firemen.

Chief Charles J. Seeburger.

"The city is not going to close any of its fire houses," he said when asked about the result of the conference.

"The men are entitled to their vacations and they will get them but we're not going to suffer the penalty of increased fire insurance rates by retiring, even temporarily, any of the fire equipment."

He said his suggestion that vacations be spread out over the months until the end of the year was met with opposition from the chief.

Seeburger has scheduled the vacations of a four-month period beginning Sunday. The schedule calls for four men off duty for periods of two weeks each.

Seeburger yesterday served city officials with notice that he would close No. 4 fire station, located in the industrial district, on Newman street, in order to meet the schedule.

The outline of time off was submitted to Crafton, who said this morning that he intended personally to interview firemen regarding a plan to carry the vacations into the winter months.

He said this plan would allow for only two men off at a time and that a shift of equipment and operating procedure might allow for the vacations without adding any temporary firemen to fill in.

Chief Seeburger had little comment to make concerning the meeting with the mayor and Crafton. He announced however that vacations, which were scheduled to start Sunday, would be withheld.

Work Started on $6,000 Nazarene Church Addition

Work on a $6,000 addition to the Church of the Nazarene, Reba avenue, was started last week, according to an announcement by Rev. Mrs. Lena Brandenburg, pastor.

The addition is a church auditorium, being added to the basement which was built about five years ago.

The auditorium will have a seating capacity of about 350, according to Mrs. Brandenburg and is being built to relieve overcrowded conditions. When the top part of the church is completed the basement will be used as a Sunday school room. The addition is of brick construction and is expected to be completed around Aug. 1.

FRIENDLY HOUSE OPENS SUMMER EVENTS MONDAY

Morning, Afternoon and Night Programs to Be Staged on Lighted Playgrounds.

Summer activities at the Friendly House will get in full swing next week when supervised play is started Monday on the city's only lighted playground.

The ground will be open daily, Monday through Friday, morning, afternoon and night, Russell Gimbel, head worker, said. Girls will be under the supervision of Miss Sue Paste and Mike Wentz will be in charge of the boys.

The summer program will include craft work for boys and girls, hikes, picnics, and kittenball and baseball games. The settlement will operate its own kittenball and baseball leagues. In addition to these outdoor activities a play school for children four, five and six years of age, will be held daily from 9 to 11 a. m. except Saturday and Sunday. N. Y. A. workers will assist the settlement staff in this work.

Playground equipment such as swings, merry-go-round, and slides have been installed and are ready for use, and a wading pool for smaller children will be ready for use within a week, according to Gimbel. Motion picture shows will be held throughout the summer.

Registrations for the summer program will open Monday morning. About 300 children were registered at the settlement last summer, Gimbel said.

Yes sir, this is the real test of whisky! Flavor that carries through in highballs, richness that is not obscured by lemon juice or bitters, smoothness that makes "straights" a new pleasure.

We make this whisky in our old-fashioned slow way. It's a sour mash whisky. The limestone water of our Bourbon Springs has no harshness, and brings out rich flavor.

THEATERS

Revives Old Feud.

THE old movie feud of Cagney vs. O'Brien takes on new impetus in their latest comedy, "Torrid Zone," which opens at the Ohio tomorrow for four days. O'Brien is head of a big fruit corporation in a "torrid zone" country and Cagney is the hardest-nosed plantation boss in the Orient. Ann Sheridan has another of her tough-but-tender-gal role as the Oriental cafe entertainer who casts speculative eyes on the plantation boss. Andy Devine and Helen Vinson are in the supporting cast.

Gay Romance.

A gay and romantic comedy is behind the title of "The Doctor Takes A Wife" in which Loretta Young and Ray Milland are teamed. A career girl and a young surgeon follow a stormy path to romance only to find the answer to all their quarrels and problems when they are called to assist at the birth of a baby in an old shack. A second feature at the Madison, starting Saturday, is the much discussed "Lights Out In Europe." The pictures were taken in Europe by Herb Kline, James Hilton wrote the commentary and Frederic March narrates it.

Autry at The Ritz.

A small English boy, brought to America under peculiar circumstances, is befriended by Gene Autry and Smiley Burnette who have been stranded in New York after a rodeo, in "Gaucho Serenade." A manhunt gets under way and an old crime is solved. "Parole Fixer," written by J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, and with William Henry and Virginia Dale in the cast, is the second attraction at the Ritz.

Out Where West Begins.

Another feud of long standing in the movies is between the cattlemen and the farmers of the west, and this theme is used to give George O'Brien another Western vehicle in "Prairie Law," a Majestic attraction for today and tomorrow. Virginia Dale is cast in this picture also. Another series of family pictures, similar to the Hardys and the Jonses, is introduced in "Our Neighbors—The Carters," with Fay Bainter, Edmund Lowe, Frank Craven and Genevieve Tobin.

Mesquiteers to The Rescue.

John Howard as the noted sleuth, Heather Angel as lovely Phyllis Clavering who pursues him, H. B. Warner, Reginald Denny and Eduardo Cianelli head the cast of "Bulldog Drummond's Bride" at the Park. The usual week-end Western is "Heroes of The Saddle," which brings to the screen another episode of the Three Mesquiteers. This time the saddle cavaliers ride to the rescue of an orphan and expose the grafting tactics of the head of the orphanage.

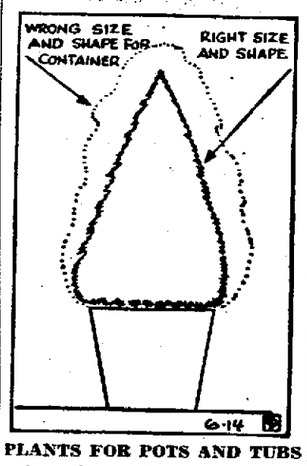
Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



PLANTS FOR POTS AND TUBS

An understanding of proportion, as well as of plant material, is useful when undertaking to grow plants or shrubs in pots. Whether you are purchasing plant material already potted, or planning to buy stock to be potted, strive to secure a pleasing proportion between the plant and the container.

The accompanying Garden-Graph shows a plant in correct relationship to the container in which it is planted. The dotted outlines show the "out-of-proportion" effect of the same container when holding a plant much too large for it. Using too small a plant will also result in the same lack of balance.

Tubbed plants, because they are used to obtain a certain effect, attract attention, therefore they should be chosen with special care as to size and shape. Only select material properly pruned and not plants which show the ugly stubs of jagged cuts.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

That Olina's announced intention of speaking to me was only a subterfuge designed not only to leave her mother and Philip Veritzen together, but to facilitate her own escape to the sanctuary of her room, I knew even before she came up to me and murmured her pretty, perfunctory query.

"Dear Mrs. Graham, I want to know your verdict, too. Did you really approve my performance, and are there any hints you can give me?"

I smiled at her in friendly fashion, for I could see there was no further need of disciplining Olina. That word "sister," from Philip Veritzen's lips, defining, with significance, as it did, her future relationship to Noel, had deflated her. I saw also that she was fairly ill with humiliation and disappointment, and longed for the privacy of her own room before her mother should come up.

"I approve most emphatically," I said, "and I have no hints at present. But you and Mary have had a grueling forenoon. I prescribe naps for both of you."

A look of relief flashed over her face, and she spoke swiftly.

"I think I shall take that prescription immediately," she said. "Thank you."

She hurried away, and nobody spoke until she was out of sight and hearing. Then Mary swept me a little obeisance.

"Maybe you think you're going to send me to bed, too," she said, "but nothing doing with this child yet. Me, I'm going to celebrate, but I don't know just how."

Lillian looked at her flushed face and too bright eyes with shrewd kindliness.

"Right you are girl," she said heartily. "You're sure entitled to a celebration, and we'll join in, but we can't just yet for the Chief wants us old folks in a conference pretty soon, a conference which I suspect you may be asked to join a little later. Pretty important business it is, too. I fancy the Chief is going to draw in the net shortly. Now, of course you don't want to go to bed, but I think if Noel would take you up and have you get into something loose and lie down on the couch for just a few minutes while he holds your lily white hand and reads or sings to you, it might be a very good preparation for both the conference and the later celebration. You're more tired than you think you are."

"Come dearest!" Noel pleaded, in answer to a gesture I sent him. "You shall get up whenever you say the word, but do rest just a bit first."

"Oh! all right," Mary said with sudden surprising docility. "I could do with getting these shoes off at that."

He took her away on that, and we watched them climbing the stairs, the same emotion swaying each of us, a feeling of relieved thankfulness that there was no more unpleasant problem confronting the young couple of whom we were so fond.

"And that's that," Dicky said, his voice muted and one eye on the closed library door, although from our position far down the hall, neither Philip nor Olga could have heard us. "I still haven't the slightest idea how it happened, but the result is plain. The troubles of those two kids are behind them."

Never Borrow Trouble.

I did not dare to look at Lillian but I felt sure that she was echoing my mental doubt of Dicky's dictum. True, I was confident that Philip Veritzen was eliminated as a troublesome factor in the problem of his son and his daughter-in-law, but deep within me was a little foreboding concerning the future of Dicky's beautiful and rarely gifted young niece and her idolatrous, temperamental husband.

But I shook it off determinedly with a reminder that the old proverb spoke of the evil being "sufficient" to its day. I would not borrow trouble, I told myself even as Dicky clipped me round the waist and kissed me warmly, and Harry saluted Lillian in similar fashion.

"Why the sudden ardor?" Lillian demanded mischievously.

"Oh! just because you're such darned good scouts," Dicky explained. "That's your second installment, and you needn't do another good deed today for it. And now, whither away?"

"I must stay here until Philip goes," I said. "Obligations of a hostess and all that, you know."

"Including royal etiquette," Dicky gibed. "Well! good luck! I'm off!"

"So say we all," Harry said, seizing Lillian by the arm and rushing off with her. But I was glad I had lingered, when after Philip Veritzen and Olga had come out into the hall, and Philip had taken his leave, Olga laid a compelling hand upon my arm.

"Dear Madge!" she said. "Could you spare me just a moment or two. There is something I must ask you."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, June 15.

A day of promise and promotion is read from interesting mutual and lunar aspects. The energies will be splendidly stimulated to push forward into fresh channels, with new propositions of major importance attracting the ready support of employers, superiors or others whose promotional cooperation is needed. Initiative and enterprise, with well-developed methods of improvement and innovation, are sure to enlist financial support from big business interests. The friendship element seems significant in this direction, although finesse and tact are recommended rather than too aggressive approach.

Those whose birthday it is may be confident of putting over rather important and promising programs, with the substantial cooperation of those in financial condition for promotion. But such propositions must have the element of the fresh, novel and entirely practical and constructive. It is a time for launching worthwhile projects that will stand the test of merit, and while the friendly aid of superiors and employers is imperative these may have to be approached with tact rather than insistence or boldness.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, audacious, high strung and impetuous in a combination that may prove its self-undoing, unless trained in tact and diplomacy. Its quick temper and lack of moderation should be disciplined.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

IN THE LAP OF THE GODS

Those who reflect upon what they see will find bridge just as good a tonic for their humility as for their conceit. When things are looked at frankly, even the most boastful bidding expert must admit that many of his contracts are dependent upon factors utterly beyond his ken, even some of the simplest of them. The mere question of the way your side suit lengths fit with your partner's is often something which is purely in the lap of the gods.

	♠ A Q 9 3 ♥ K Q 10 6 3 ♦ 9 ♣ J 8 3

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	2 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♣
3 ♠	4 ♣	4 ♠	Dbl.

After East put the 2 on West's lead of the diamond K, the latter switched to the club 5, whereupon the side scored three tricks in that suit, setting the contract one trick only, as the declarer got all of the rest without straining himself.

It was a pleasure to hear the way West post-mortemed the deal.

"I certainly was lucky with that bum double," he said. "I considered that my holding of the two tops in my partner's suit made it likely he would have some of the big ones in spades or hearts. Really his raise of clubs should have warned me against a double, indicating the likelihood that his diamond bid was backed up by club honors, as it was."

"I don't see much the matter with your double," said South. "You set me, didn't you?"

"Yes," responded West, "but through the grace of luck. If instead of two diamonds and three clubs, you had held three diamonds and two clubs, you would have made the contract. You were merely unlucky and I was shot full of luck."

With normal bidding otherwise, what principle enables North to bid 5-Diamonds over 4-Hearts while preventing him from bidding 4-Diamonds over 3-Hearts?

NOVEL TELLS OF LIFE IN PERIOD OF REVOLUTION

Osa Johnson's Latest Book Placed on Shelves of Mansfield Library.

New on the shelves at Mansfield Public library is a novel by F. van Wyck Mason dealing with life during the American Revolution, and one by Eric Knight which pictures life among the Yorkshire colliers.

Osa Johnson's latest book is apparently headed for the best-seller list, and along with it at the library is another autobiography by Katharine Brush, novelist and short story writer.

Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner have written the story of American diplomacy and the second World war, while T. Wood Clarke has compiled a history of the Mohawk valley.

The new book list includes:

STARS ON THE SEA by F. van Wyck Mason pictures America as she was in the days of the Revolution, when she lacked a strong Navy. It shows how deeply a blockade can affect every walk of American life. Mr. Mason recounts the dramatic first expedition attempted by an American Naval Force. The background of the novel furnishes many details portraying the life of those times.

THE BIRD IN THE TREE by Elizabeth Goudge is a modern love story which takes place at Dameroseshay, the eighteenth-century home of the Eliots on a neglected stretch of the Hampshire coast. Three charming youngsters and two dogs add color and life to the novel.

THE HAPPY LAND by Eric Knight is a story of life among the Yorkshire colliers when the mines shut down. It describes the slow, gradual descent of self-respecting people as they use up their savings.

Other fiction: YAQUI DRUMS by Coolidge, FATAL DESCENT by Street, 221 B; STUDIES IN SHERLOCK HOLMES edited by Starrett.

On Non Fiction List.

AMERICAN WHITE PAPER by Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner is the story of American diplomacy and the second World war. The book is an experiment in contemporary history which the authors realize possibly lacks perspective. However it does give the inside details of how American foreign policy is made and who makes it.

THE BLOODY MOHAWK by T. Wood Clarke is a history of the Mohawk valley. This very readable narrative records the exciting days when this region served as a frontier battleground between the several tribes of Indians, later between the French and the Indians, the French and the English, and the final period, of the English and the colonists.

Two new autobiographies are by prominent American women. THIS IS ON ME by Katharine Brush, the novelist and short story writer, is an account of her writing career. Miss Brush includes a number of short stories she has written and explains how she developed the plots.

I MARRIED ADVENTURE by Osa Johnson, jungle traveler, tells the story of a life filled with unusual experiences. Mrs. Johnson describes the many ups and downs of her life with Martin; the excitement of the jungle and the uncertainty of their first year when the admission price for his lecture was 10c.

MEN AT WORK AT WORSHIP by Gerald Ellard is a gift of the Timely Topics club. This book sets forth a philosophy of life for the individual and for society, based on active participation in the liturgy of the Catholic church.

Other non-fiction: ALONG THE INDIAN ROAD by Jones; TWELVE WAYS TO BUILD A VOCABULARY by Hart; THE STRATEGY OF JOB FINDING by Lyons and Martin; NURSERY SCHOOL EDUCATION by Foster and Mattson; VICTORY OF TELEVISION by Kerby; YOUR CAREER IN AVIATION by Mattoon; GARDEN OF LARKSPURS by Bailey; INDUSTRIAL DESIGN: A PRACTICAL GUIDE by Van Doren; FORCES IN AMERICAN CRITICISM by Smith; WHAT TO SEE AND DO IN MEXICO by Seaton; A SOUTHERNER DISCOVERS NEW ENGLAND by Daniels; AMERICA WAS PROMISES by MacLeish; SLOW WALL: POEMS, NEW AND SELECTED by Speyer; CORN: A BOOK OF POEMS by Engle.

Whether a horse is a race horse or a great detective, a good book may be written about him. Here we have both kinds of horses and unusually good stories about them. Both books will delight the middle-sized readers—especially boys.

THE GREAT GEPPY by William Pene Du Bois. When Pegasus is spelled backwards it becomes Geppy's real name. Like his name this was a most unusual horse. He was striped red and white and he had almost human brains. That was how he became the great detective who solved the mystery of who stole the money from the Bott Three-Ring cirsus. Surely no one could read this story without a good laugh.

SALUTE by C. W. Anderson. Peter loved horses more than anything. He took care of his father's horses and he read about them in books and newspapers. He even saved pictures of them. At last he was given one of his own, an old broken-down race horse. With the money this horse won for him, he was at last able to buy a young horse, that he names Salute.

FOREST FURY + + + + + + + + +

By OREN ARNOLD
(Copyright 1940)

RAIN was slashing the landscape with a ferocity characteristic of the Southwest. Its silvery curtain, slanting and undulating, had concealed the mountain half an hour ago and the paved roadway itself now was all but invisible. Wind tore at the car, swaying it alarmingly; but Rosemary tried to admit no fright.

Since the last filling station, about sixty miles back (which she had blithely skipped), she had climbed up and up and up, the motor laboring, and she hadn't seen so much as a hint of a human being. When the rain permitted she could glimpse trees now to her right—not the trunks of them but the green tiptops, below her eye level. The added chill also spoke of altitude. And the afternoon hour was late.

There was only one thing to do—keep rolling as long as she could. She tried singing a little—

"Got no gal,
Got no pal,
To keep me companee-e-e-e-e."

That didn't seem to help. Wind broke a forked pine tree with a terrifying crack and crash, and tumbled it down the cliff out of sight. She tried to ignore her pounding heart.

She felt better coasting downhill. The motor was quieter, and over on this slope of the mountain the rain subsided and the cold wind was immediately tamed. Pearls glistened and dripped in the foliage with infinite beauty, and Rosemary could laugh now at her fears back there. After all, I am an adult, she informed herself, from a mental height; I shall soon be twenty-three and I have taken care of myself for years. Which was true.

In a quarter of an hour or so she was on a flat stretch rolling smoothly, even though the fuel gauge was more emphatic in its leaning toward the left. Rosemary tried to tell herself that it wasn't accuate, that fuel gauges never are, that gas tanks really hold a gallon or two when the gauges point to "empty." She swallowed, hard, centering her attention on the road. For added bravado now she speed up; water on the pavement spurted out from both sides of her car like silvery wings. There wasn't any cliff edges to frighten her; the highway led through a mountain valley with just a slight land roll. Maybe she could get somewhere, if she hurried, before sundown.

Then she topped a little knoll and the paved roadway disappeared.

Abruptly, there a hundred yards or so ahead, the highway dipped right under a wide and muddy stream.

"O-o-oh!" She almost screamed it, slapping down the brakes.

She swung left—right—and left—around! When she finally halted the skidding car it was at a crazy angle, but miraculously was still upright. A few feet from it was new expanse of water, and, worst of all, in the swirling stream she could see the top of another car!

As if in a daze, Rosemary left her driver's seat, staring.

"O-o-o-oh!"

She really did scream then, in genuine terror. She had seen an arm flailing about the partially submerged automobile!

In a few seconds the arm became a man in a dark suit. He came to the surface sputtering.

"Hold tight!" Rosemary yelled frantically. "Don't give up! I'll try to help!"

The car and the man were not thirty feet from solid ground but sufficient to bring him to a footing not over waist-deep. He lugged and finally dug his fingers into firm sand. In that instant Rosemary found herself dragging him to full safety.

They sat together, speechless, just staring and breathing in gasps. He was plastered with mud and would have appeared ludicrous under other circumstances, and the girl herself was wet and very muddy now.

"You'd better—come—to my car," she finally managed, looking into his face. "A—are you hurt?"

He could only shake his head. He rubbed mud from himself, scooped muddy water to wash both face and hands, and turned to her dripping anew. Still breathing hard, he stooped to take her arm and help her to her feet. They continued brushing off mud and were walking slowly back up the hill. They could tell that the flood water was going down because more of his car was showing. It had been almost to the top of the windows, but now was down to the steering-wheel level. Involuntarily he looked upstream. Greenclad mountains reared boldly there in the foreground. Obviously the hills had collected the freshet waters in astonishing haste, concentrated them in the run-off down this upland valley.

"The bridge—" Rosemary began, "did it—wash out?"

"There wasn't any bridge."

"Oh."

"No, I—I suppose I was a fool. I thought it just a shallow stream and I could ford it. But there is a dip five or six feet deep, and a terrible current. You must be freezing."

"You too." She pointed to him. He was of course wetter than she.

"I deserve to shiver. You—saved my life. And lost your coat. Of course I shall—"

"Forget that. I'm happy that you weren't drowned. Look! It's coming harder. More rain!"

The storm lashed down again. As the landscape once more was blanked out, they were grateful to be inside Rosemary's sedan even though they were very cold.

"My name's Montgomery," he said. "I wish I could do something to make you comfortable."

"I'm Rosemary Taylor."

"Miss Taylor," he nodded, with strange formality for such a situation.

For the first time Rosemary really saw his features, really appraised him. His manner and his voice had already told her that he was a man of refinement. Eyes were blue, and he had an expressive mouth. She couldn't guess at his age except to know that he wasn't old. Cleaned up, he would be definitely handsome.

"You were traveling alone?" she ventured. Then in quick new alarm—"At least I hope you were!"

"Oh yes! No, no one else was in the car, fortunately. I am—was—coming to Arizona for some research."

"Research?"

"Yes. I am a student of ancient history. I, uh, I am on the faculty at Yale. I expected to stay here for the summer looking into Indian legends and such, but—"

"Oh," mumured Rosemary. So he was a professor. "We'll, I was coming to Arizona myself. In fact, I think we're both here. Isn't this,—didn't we cross the state line back a ways?"

"Yes, quite so. The rain is subsiding again. Perhaps—"

As abruptly as it had started, the new downpour stopped. In a few seconds the staccato on the metal sedan top gave way to the more ominous roaring of the stream; visibility cleared and they could see the landscape again.

"Look—your car!" Rosemary grasped his wrist in fresh alarm.

They stared, speechless, for a long while.

Montgomery's coupe was tumbling, slowly, under mass pressure of the water that had risen anew. Plump—plump—plump, it moved sideways downstream. A log had rammed into it but it still seemed to roll like a heavy toy. When it had moved maybe fifty yards, crumpled and torn, it suddenly dropped out of sight entirely.

* * *

Rosemary turned to look at him. His face was strained, staring, his sensitive mouth slightly open. She looked up into his boyish blue eyes and felt a quick sympathy for him.

"I'm afraid—that's that," she murmured, very gently.

He did not reply. But he reached slowly to put his hand on hers and squeeze it. Rosemary knew it was a gesture of deep gratitude. She felt like crying.

That half-hour of rain seemed to be all for that day.

Black clouds rumbled on off, then a patch of blue suddenly leered tauntingly down. But for another half-hour Rosemary and Montgomery could do nothing but sit and shiver and watch the stream subside. Amazingly, it subsided almost one hundred per cent in that short time. They got out to inspect the highway.

"Well, it's unbelievable but the pacement is clear again now!" she exclaimed. "Except for a little trash."

She started her motor and rolled right across the place where he had lost his car and almost drowned. Within a couple of miles they had come to a human dwelling, a place blessed even with a one-stand tank of gasoline. The elderly proprietor greeted them sociably, heard their story with interest.

"Tch-tch-tch!" He shook his head in sympathy. "I'm sorry. I wisht you'd a waited till th' water went down!"

Montgomery nodded. "That was due to my ignorance."

"Well, sir, now, ignorance ain't no sin. Any dip out in this west country's likely to fill up on no notice a'tall when a mountain rain comes, and run empty just as quick. This rain's awful late in the season anyway. I'll see, first thing in th' mornin,' if they's enough left of your car to save anything."

"It was insured," the easterner stated, simply. "Do such floods do a great deal of damage?"

"Not hardly ever. Most trouble's from forest fires in this country. Things dry out quick in Arizona."

"What causes fires?"

"Lightnin', dude campers, fool smokers and such."

The stranded pair dried rapidly by the mountaineer's stove. Within an hour Rosemary's normal spirit and animation began to creep back. They had no thought of dinner, even though black night had arrived.

"A real adventure, eh, professor?" she smiled at him after a bit. "Say, what's you other name? Do they call you Monty?"

He smiled back. He still was suffused with a sense of deep gratitude to Rosemary Taylor, and showed it in his manner. Also he was conscious now of her twin dimples and her deep dark eyes.

"They call me Dr. Montgomery, which is correct, I suppose. But to my mother and others, I am plain Archibald."

Rosemary almost laughed aloud. Archibald! It was comic. Archibald Montgomery! She would have razzed him about it if she had met him back home in New York. It was so—so upstage, scholastic.

The professor took stock of her now tangled curls.

"You are, uh—a college girl yourself perhaps, Miss Taylor?" he inquired. He was imagining her as a junior or at most a senior co-ed.

"I am a crusty old business woman, in the New York office of Bickford, Cullum and McIntyre," she smiled. "Lawyers. At least I was. Right now I'm an Indian trader."

"How?" the older man asked. "Indian trader, ma'am?"

"Yes. Five years ago I impulsively invested $1,500 in an Arizona mining venture, through an elderly client of our firm. Nothing came of it, and I lost my money. But a month ago the man died, and his will stated that he had left me his trading post, out of gratitude!"

"Was that old Duncan Coulter?" Their host brightened with interest.

"Yes!"

"I knowed him! I trade some in his place. It's less'en forty miles from here. Called the Summit Trading Post."

"That's the name! I knew it was near Flagstaff, but—"

"You aim to run it, miss?"

"Oh, no, indeed! I came to sell it, of course. I thought to sell by mail, but couldn't get much satisfaction. So I just took a three-weeks leave and came out. I've never been west before."

"Well now, shore! And I hope you get a good buyer, miss."

"It is already very dark, Dr. Montgomery. Maybe we had better push on to Flagstaff."

"Right," he said. "Good night and thank you, sir."

Rosemary's car spit and backfired, but finally took hold.

"She's damp plumb through!" the station man yelled above the roaring. "Th' wiring—" They waved a last farewell, not hearing him.

Special Session of Legislature to Consider Relief

SEPARATION OF BALLOT BOOKED AS EMERGENCY

Five Proposals Prepared For Meeting of Lawmakers to Start Monday.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The 93rd Ohio General Assembly will convene in special session Monday night to act upon Gov. John W. Bricker's requests for $1,400,000 additional for poor relief, $1,000,000 extra for old age pensions, and separation of the state and national ballots at the November general election.

Governor Bricker, who issued the call last night, said the proposals would be ready for introduction opening night and that the session should be concluded before the end of the week.

The governor's proclamation authorized the legislators to consider five matters:

1. A $1,400,000 additional appropriation for poor relief to be distributed to local subdivisions as part of the state's authorized 50 per cent share of the burden for last year. (State contributions from the original $10,000,000 appropriation for 1939 totaled about 40 per cent of the cost.)

2. Appropriation of $1,000,000 to be matched equally by the federal government, for old age pensions for approximately 16,000 eligibles now on the waiting list.

3. An amendment to increase maximum old age pensions from $30 to $40 a month

4. An amendment to permit the state to use more than $800,000 federal money for aid to dependent children on a basis of 50-50 matching by the state.

5. Separating the national and state ballots.

Governor Bricker said he hoped the ballot separation could be enacted as an emergency measure to make it effective immediately. Without the emergency clause requiring a two-thirds vote in both houses, the measure would not be effective for 90 days and would be subject to a referendum

The ballot change, he added, would give voters "full and independent opportunity of expressing at the polls their judgment on vital issues affecting the state and nation."

The executive said he did not believe that the separation of the tickets would affect Sen Robert A. Taft's chances of obtaining the Republican presidential nomination at the party's national convention later this month.

Governor Bricker asserted that if former Gov. Martin L. Davey, his Democratic opponent for re-election, sponsored a referendum on the ballot change bill it would be "an admission of weakness."

"I want the voters of Ohio to have an opportunity to choose between the kind of government they now are getting and the kind they had during the previous four years under Governor Davey," he said.

The governor explained that the old age pension increase probably would not become effective this year because of the necessity of reinvestigating all of the 125,000 persons on the rolls.

The relief appropriation, he said, would not be applied to this year's bills but would aid local subdivisions by reducing deficits.

He emphasized that the appropriations could be met from an anticipated treasury surplus of $8,000,000 without new taxes.

House Speaker William M. McCullough called Republican members of the house for a caucus Monday afternoon to select a floor leader to succeed Rep. J. Harry McGregor of Coshocton, who resigned to enter congress.

Richland Budget For '41 to Show Slight Increase

Richland county's 1941 budget, which will be ready for public inspection July 3, probably will call for a slight increase in county expenditures, but it is not expected to show much change from this year's figures, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

The auditor said he has not received all of the budget requests from county departments, but on the basis of prospective income for next year, the county's general fund expenditures probably will be about $400,000. The general fund appropriation this year was $398,000.

The county will be out of debt by the end of this year and a one-tenth mill tax levy for debt purposes will be removed at the beginning of 1941. The county operating rate will remain at 2.5 mills, Wolfe said.

The total appropriation for the county this year was $682,000 and it may vary somewhat in 1941 since it includes the general fund, road and bridge fund, bond retirement fund, and relief appropriations, it was pointed out.

5 Mansfielders Hurt; 5 Accidents In Area

Up and Down THE STREET

Mrs. Harry V. Downs, matron of the Richland county Children's Home, was more shocked than amused when a five-year-old boy who had just entered the home approached boldly with the question: "Where's my whisky and tobacco?" When Mrs. Downs explained to him that things like that were not permitted in the institution and no child should have them, the boy replied: "I used to have a drink at home whenever I wanted one." And that, Mrs. Downs explained, was why he was in the home and not with his parents.

No one in Mansfield is more interested in the war news than Elden Becker, a News-Journal linotype operator, whose brother Wayne Becker, former Springfield boy, is in the Royal Air Corp. Becker, who is 29, joined the United States navy and served six years and then became ground engineer for TWA and later for the Pan-American Airways. While with this company he was stationed at Trinidad, British West Indies. When England and France became involved in the war, he decided to offer his services. On Dec. 29, last year, he went to England and joined the R. A. C. as an engineer. His family has not heard from him since March 22. Naturally relatives are wondering if he is alive, whether he has been retained in England for service or sent to France.

They're calling Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, "second-gear" today. The title was bestowed on him Thursday by other city officials whom he drove to Zanesville to look over the parking meter situation there. Crafton, who was driving, would become engaged in conversation and when he shifted gears in traffic he would forget about putting the car back in high gear and had to be prompted on at least three occasions, once by Police Chief Meade K. Bates who asked him if the machine had a third gear.

Loudonville Men Plead Not Guilty in Alleged Purchase of Stolen Metal.

Guy Weiler, 31, of Albion, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department here, after he pleaded guilty to charges of stealing a set of tractor plows. Sentence will be passed later, Judge Culbertson said.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember.)

Lynn Fontanne, the actress, loves to exchange chit-chat with taxi drivers, and she'd rather debate baseball or news bulletins with one of her favorite hackies than all the celebrities at Sardi's. . . . George Brent, who exudes such tweedy charm on celluloid, is Hollywood's least vivacious fellow in his off-screen moments. He majors in two mannerisms: staring moodily into space and taking slow, thoughtful drags on cigarets.

A man walking down Broadway without his shoes is in nine cases out of ten, Raymond Scott, the orchestra leader who writes the tunes with the funny names.

Scott is so absent-minded when he's in the throes of the composition that he often picks up his shoes, neatly knots the laces, but forgets to put them on his feet—and goes promenading in his stockings.

Julie Haydon sits with one leg curled under her, even in night clubs and if you compliment her on her dress she says, "Oh, but your dress is much prettier."

Irving Berlin likes to go to obscure Chinese restaurants — here or on the coast — introduce himself, invade the kitchen, and have an orgy of sampling potions from every pot on the stove.

It's a hangover from his boyhood days in Manhattan's Chinatown. . . . Constance Collier is an anecdote addict. Mention any famous stage or screen star's name and she comes up with an irresistible piece of biography.

I can never carry on a conversation with Frank Case, the Algonquin's headmaster, when he is in his dinner jacket, without staring in fascination at his black bow tie, which he tucks under his turned down collar so that only the knot is visible. . . . Barbara Hutton always looks as if she spent more time dressing than any woman in any room she's in. Ditto, Mrs. Byron Foy.

Joe Louis, the heavyweight champ, is the most rabid comic strip fan I've ever met. I remember once, just before his big bout with Max Schmeling, when he should have been tense with anticipation, he turned to one of the sports writers and said: "Which do you-all like best, Wimpy or Popeye?" . . .

When he sits in the Stork Club, Billy Gaxton always looks as if he is waiting for Victor Moore to come in.

Milton Berle usually needs a haircut and Oscar Levant usually needs a haircomb. J. C. Nugent just needs hair. . . . Jessica Dragonette always insists on a private microphone when she's doing a radio show, so often the hero in the love story pays ardent court to her on a mike ten feet away from her romantic responses. . . .

Tony Martin sometimes forgets that he's famous and says to people who are being introduced: "But don't you remember me?—you met me when I was one of the musicians in an orchestra at the Chez Paree in 1933."

Albert Johnson, the stage designer, marks up all the menus in a restaurant first, then scribbles on the tablecloth. . . . Molly Picon, the Second ave. Bernhardt, drinks her noonday tea out of a tall glass.

Gertrude Lawrence likes blue songs played on a phonograph. . . . If Maxie Rosenbloom's schoolteacher bride happens to do any thing that irks him slightly, he doesn't care whether he's at Leon and Eddie's or at the first row at the Aquacade—he puts her over his knee and spanks her! . . . Arthur and Irving Caeser always wear flowers in their lapels. . . . Robert Elliott, the Sing Sing executioner had a Lincoln complex—somebody once told him he looked like the Great Emancipator, and he kept dozens of pictures of Lincoln around his house. . . . Hildegarde, who is so glamorous when she sings "roughs it" at breakfast time—she usually has her eggs at the automat or the five-and-ten.

If Barbara Bannister, the Smithfield ham heiress, finds an acquaintance charming, she doesn't send around a bouquet or a book—instead, she has a messenger deliver a colossal baked ham right at the doorstep.

She's lost several actor friends just that way. . . .

John Charles Thomas looks as dignified as the facade of a cathedral, but in small groups he's a positive prankster. Shows up with celluloid false teeth, or fake eyeglasses with weird rolling eyes stuck behind them.

Owney Madden was regarded as a tough man with the mob but he was always a softie with his pigeons — couldn't bear to be separated from them. . . . Fred Allen really chews tobacco—sometimes even at the microphone. . . .

Cole Porter is a determined superstition-defier. Goes out of his way to walk under ladders, to pet black cats, and to light three cigarets on a match. He thinks it's good luck. . . . The Ranee of Sarawak is a confirmed jitterbug, and she'd rather shag than waltz, even handicapped by the sari-effect costumes she always wears. . . . One of the cutest duos I ever saw on an opening night was Elsa Maxwell and George Jean Nathan.

Mr. Nathan, incidentally, has the habit of rolling his theater program and peering through it as if it were a telescope—covering his free eye with his hand—whenever there's something special he wants to see on the stage.

Peaches Browning is one of those people who picks up a telephone and calls Honolulu as casually as if she were dialing Brooklyn. . . . Nick the Greek, the gambler, used to go on milk diets for three weeks at a time, but because he never thought a diet was of any spiritual value unless you were constantly tempted, he used to send out for turkey and sit looking at the alluring viands—until it was time for his glass of milk!

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Whatever else this age may be called in the future, right now it's hillbilly time in Hollywood.

The hillbily is an all-American institution, and he's comin' round the mountain on entirely non-controversial bare feet as fast as he can—to fill the screen with goings-on to take the mind off the great unpleasantness outside.

"Comin' Round the Mountain" is one of the offerings at Paramount, but Republic has thrown in two, practically cornering the market on cinematic corn-squeezin's. The valley studio has finished "Grand Ole Opry," with the ubiquitous Weaver Brothers and Elvira, and currently is surrounding Judy Canova, the "Jenny Lind of the Ozarks," with glamour and comedians for a hillbilly-Hollywood yarn called "Scatterbrain."

Miss Canova will be around a while; her contract calls for two more pictures to be made in God's country (here) before she can get back to her own God's country (Florida). It is merely one of the droll things about the Ozarks' Jenny Lind that she never has seen the Ozarks, an oversight she intends to remedy soon.

She is a shapely, slightly buxom lass of 24, "glamorous" as to figure but with so few pretensions otherwise to the mystic movie quality that she cheerfully admits it makes no never-mind to her if she is seen, sans make-up before breakfast in the morning. When she was 21, down in Jacksonville, and interested in dramatics, she was advised that comedy would be her forte. She thinks her face (which is distinguished by slanting grey eyes) may have influenced the advice.

The Canovas of Florida are descended from early Spanish settlers—they've got it on paper if you care—and none were in show business until Zeke. Anne and Judy went career-seeking in New York. Anne was the serious musician, with conservatory education and all. None of it seemed to matter until, hearing a little night club could use a hill-billy act, the trio came 'round the mountain by buying a dime book of hill tunes and applying for the job. They got it, and Judy went from there to a Rudy Vallee airing contract and stage stardom. Anne is married now, but Zeke is coming on to Hollywood. Judy lives with her brother Pete and his wife here. Pete having quit business to manage the family careers.

Redlegs Meet Rivals

Strengthened Dodgers Entertain Today; Tex To Toe Rubber.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE baseball spotlight will be focussed this week-end on the four-game collision of Cincinnati's Reds and Brooklyn's Dodgers at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in the hope that the violent struggle there will indicate the eventual National league champion.

Whether it will is open to question, but there never will be a more dramatic setting for a test of power between two strong teams that are virtually deadlocked for the lead.

The ball park, seating approximately 35,000 persons, has been sold out for today, tomorrow and Sunday and police reserves had to be summoned in Brooklyn yesterday to clear away thousands of fans clamoring for tickets in front of the Dodger offices.

The pennant fever Cincinnati developed last summer has been reduced to insignificance in the face of the ardor of Flatbush fans, who believe that the reinforcement by Outfielder Joe Medwick and Pitcher Curt Davis will enable Brooklyn to crush all other contenders.

Medwick was to take his place in the Dodger lineup today at leftfield, batting cleanup. Manager Leo Durocher had Tex Carleton, the no-hit nemesis of the Reds, groomed for the first pitching assignment against the champions. Bill McKechnie countered with Gene Thompson, the young righthander who has won eight games this spring.

Both leagues swung into action on new fronts today, the National league in the eastern sector and the American in the west.

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers staged a red-hot interlude yesterday while the other clubs were traveling and the Indians eventually triumphed 3-2 in ten innings.

The victory lifted the Tribe back into second place and gave Lefty Al Smith his sixth victory against one defeat, although he gave up 13 hits to the 10 collected by Cleveland.

Detroit's ragged efforts caught up with them in this one. Charley Gehringer hit a home run in the first and the Tigers got another run in the second. They had scoring chances in almost every inning thereafter and they loaded the bases with none out in the tenth.

Then Cleveland came to bat and Roy (Beau) Bell doubled. With two out Ben Chapman, who previously had tripled, doubled and singled, rapped an inconsequential grounder to Gehringer, who made two separate errors on the same play and let in a run.

* * *

The Indians opened a three-game series against the Philadelphia Athletics today. Manager Oscar Vitt gave righthander Joe Dobson a chance to get his first victory of the season. Jim Babich drew the mound assignment for the Mackmen.

* * *

Lefty Willett was on the hill for Findlay and after the fourth frame had things well under control, but his teammates couldn't do much with Arnold's offerings.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)— Everything is ducky in Brooklyn—at the moment.

From Borough President to Barber the feeling is that the purchase of the slugging Medwick guarantees the National League pennant will fly from the ramparts of Ebbets Field, and that for the Dodgers to have to play the remainder of their schedule is but a useless and bothersome formality.

With the mighty Ducky on hand to bat in the clean-up position housewives have begun to sew on the frocks they plan to wear to the World series; taxicab drivers have turned their wits to thinking up new and more savoury epithets to hurl at the American leaguers in October; and children have started hoarding pennies against the price of a bleacher seat.

All of which puts Ducky Medwick in the toughest spot since the mighty Casey, with all of Mudville's bankroll at stake, strode to the plate. Probably a tougher spot, in fact, because Brooklyn is quite a few times larger than Mudville ever was, and its baseball fans are made of much sterner stuff.

Medwick cannot fail to deliver with that bat of his. That is, and expect to get out of Brooklyn alive. Brooklyn's baseball fanatics are not cut from the same cloth as those Detroit customers who showered Medwick with grapefruit, apples, lunch baskets and assorted edibles in that final World series game between the Cardinals and the Tigers in 1934.

* * *

When the Brooklyn boys and girls throw it is for keeps. A man cannot eat what they chunk unless he be a sword swallower or a glass eater. So it would behoove Ducky to start hitting and keep hitting. Brooklyn fans know the tremendous price the Dodgers paid for Ducky, and they will expect him to perform to the last penny of it.

Browns Take 2nd Position

Score Double Victory Over Dayton Club.

DAYTON —(AP)— Youngstown occupied second place in the Mid-Atlantic league standings today as the result of a double victory over Dayton last night.

The Browns took the first game, 3 to 1, in a thriller in which neither team scored until the 11th inning. Dayton finally cracked in the 13th frame, allowing two Youngstown runs on three errors and a ground rule double by Witte.

* * *

The second games was a 13 to 4 walkaway which ended after eight innings because of the midnight rule.

Charleston ended Portsmouth's winning streak at three games by trimming the Red Birds 10 to 6 at Portsmouth. The second game of a scheduled doubleheader was rained out.

* * *

League-leading Canton added another victory to its list with a 10 to 5 decision at Akron. The Terriers had two four-run rallies, the first in the second inning on Akron errors and the other in the ninth on four hits.

Today's schedule: Youngstown at Dayton, Charleston at Portsmouth, Akron at Canton.

Picard, Revolta Lead Inverness Tourney

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO —(AP)— The country's greatest par-shattering golf tournament—the annual $6,400 Inverness four-ball matches—went into its second round today with 14 professionals chasing Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Revolta of Chicago, winners of the event last year and in 1935.

* * *

As the field of 16 snared 40 birdies in the opening round yesterday, the defending champions got the jump by turning in a six-under-par 65 to hand Ed Dudley and Billie Burke a four-down defeat. Under the Inverness scoring plan that gave Picard-Revolta a plus four rating, and Dudley-Burke a minus four as they went into today's two sessions.

* * *

Back of the leaders were Jimmy Demaret and Dick Metz with plus three, following their best-ball 64 which beat "Jug McSpaden and Lawson Little, the new national open king, three up. Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl turned in a two-up victory over Walter Hagen and Byron Nelson, and Horton Smith and Jimmy Thomson registered a one-up decision over Gene Sarazen and Clayton Heafner.

* * *

Picard led the birdie shooters through the first 18 with five sub-par holes, while Hagen, Guldahl and Dudley got four each. Little, appearing in his first tournament since winning the open crown, scored three birdies.

In today's double program the leaders were booked against Hagen-Nelson this morning, and Sarazen-Heafner this afternoon. Demaret-Metz had Dudley-Burke and Smith-Thomson as their foes, and Snead-Guldahl were to play Sarazen-Heafner and McSpadenLittle. Other matches were Smith-Thomson vs. McSpaden-Little and Hagen-Nelson vs. Dudley-Burke.

THE first annual Ohio State league All-Star classic will be staged in Lima Wednesday, July 10, it was announced by the circuit's new Writers' association today.

A picked team of 20 players from the Fremont, Findlay and Fostoria clubs will tangle with a 20-man combine selected from the rosters of the Lima, Mansfield and Tiffin teams, the association stated.

Sports writers in cities in the circuit formed the new association at a meeting held in Tiffin yesterday and will have full charge of the selection of the rosters of both teams. Proceeds of the game will be turned over to the league.

Each team will have a manager and two coaches, the coaches being the other managers of teams in the circuit. The sports scribes will meet later to select the players, managers, coaches and umpires and complete plans for the contest which will be held at 8:15 p. m.

W. E. Snypp, sports editor of the Lima News, was elected president of the new association, while Jerry Liska, sports editor of the Fremont News-Messenger, was selected as secretary-treasurer of the group.

League tilts scheduled for July 10 will be postponed and will be played later as a part of a doubleheader. The Lima park will hold approximately 2,400 spectators, and the league, anticipating a record crowd, is expected to add additional bleacher seats.

Vitt Amazed at Player 'Revolt' Seeking His Ouster

Veteran Men Carry Protest To President

Indians Confront Bradley on Return From Their Disastrous Eastern Campaign.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' management started an "investigation" of a players' revolt against Manager Oscar Vitt today, and called Vitt as the first witness. Alva Bradley, Tribe president, talked an hour with Vitt after 12 players, among them Pitcher Bob Feller, asked Bradley to fire Vitt.

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland baseball club, facing possible dismissal as the aftermath of a mass demand by players for his ouster, was called into conference with President Alva Bradley today.

Veteran players carried their protest personally to Bradley in a move believed unprecedented in major league baseball history They told the president they could not win as long as Vitt remained at the helm, charging him with insincerity, ridiculing players and caustic public criticism.

Vitt expressed amazement when informed by reporters of the protest and at first believed it a joke. He declared he "had no reason to believe any member of the club has any enmity toward me."

"Nobody can say that I have not given 100 per cent in energy to the team," the gray-haired pilot declared. "I can't imagine what could have impelled them to do this. It looks as if somebody has been stirring up some trouble."

* * *

Bradley at first kept the meeting secret, but later admitted "a few of the boys wanted certain things corrected."

"Naturally I am going to look into the matter," Bradley added, "but until I have investigated thoroughly I can't say what action will be taken."

The Indians confronted the president on their return from a disastrous eastern trip where they dropped eight of 13 games. He refused to list the players who called on him, but it was learned authoritatively that most of the veterans were present. At least eight players were absent, including veterans Roy Weatherly, Beau Bell and Al Smith and rookies Joe Dobson, Lou Boudreau, Ray Mack, Clarence Campbell and Mike Naymick.

"They (the absentees) didn't want any part of the protest," a spokesman for the group declared, "and we were glad they didn't. We felt Bradley would be more impressed by the testimony of the fellows who have been around long enough to know what they're talking about."

Bob Feller, considered by some the best pitcher in baseball, was present at the meeting, one of the veteran players said

"We are a good ball club and we've got a chance to win the pennant, but if he (Vitt) manages the team all year we'll be lucky to finish fourth," one player said.

Cleveland is now in second place, a game and a half behind the Red Sox

Several incidents on the recent eastern trip were reported to have brought the complaints to a head and led to a discussion in a Boston hotel that resulted in the Bradley interview.

In one Boston game Feller was being hit hard and some of the players described Vitt's verbal reaction thus:

"Look at him! He's supposed to be my ace! I'm supposed to win a pennant with that kind of pitching."

* * *

Al Milnar, with eight victories, and Hal Trosky, slugging first baseman, also were loudly criticized by Vitt on the eastern swing, players said.

* * *

In the event Cleveland officials fire Vitt, it is believed that Coach Luke Sewell, former Indian catcher, will assume at least temporary charge of the team.

Watson, Scott to Wage Battle For Decathlon Championship

CLEVELAND —(AP)— If anyone takes the national decathlon title away from Western Reserve's Joe Scott this week-end, Big Bill Watson is figured the man to do it.

Even some of the Ohioan's closest admirers calculate the former University of Michigan track captain will spoil Scott's bid to become the second three-time champion.

For two years Watson was western conference titleholder in the broad jump, shot put and discus, and marks established by the sturdy negro in five of the gruelling ten events surpass anything done by the wiry Scott.

Joe, himself, has no idea of the outcome. He triumphed the last two years by all-around proficiency—except for mediocre performances in the 1,500-meter run—rather than by spectacular performances in any one event. But decathlon scoring is such that it greatly rewards outstanding performances in an additional event.

An arbitrary standard is set up for the ten trials with points awarded on the basis of how you do against present marks.

A decathlon performer may take firsts in several events, but if the time or distance is just ordinary, may lose the meet to a couple of near-record marks in other events.

Besides Scott and Watson, eight other versatile amateur track stars are in the race. Five events will be held Saturday and the other five Sunday. Only Harold Osborn, former University of Illinois ace, has won the decathlon three times.

Sandwiched between the two-day test of speed and stamina will be the Northeastern Ohio A. A. U. qualifier of 15 events, boasting an entry list of Big Ten, Ohio conference and state scholastic champions.

Scott amassed 6,671 points to annex the 1939 championship here, 175 more than his winning total the year before at Randall's Island, N. Y. Watson didn't enter either year in the decathlon "man killer" program which includes 100, 400 and 1,500-meter dashes, 110-meter hurdles, pole vault, high and broad jumps, javelin, discus and shot put.

Cancellation of the 12th Olympiad this summer in Finland as a result of European hostilities gives Cleveland the only decathlon in the nation this year.

McNeill Makes Bid for Title

GAMBIER —(AP)— Midwest intercollegiate tennis championships in men's singles and doubles are at stake today in final matches of the district qualifier for the national intercollegiate tournament.

The favorite for the title, Don McNeill of Kenyon college, matches strokes with fourth-seeded Chuck Shostrom of the University of Chicago in this morning's feature semi-final match. In the lower bracket, Billy Talbert of the University of Cincinnati takes on Seymour Greenberg of Northwestern, Big Ten champion.

In doubles semi-finals, McNeill and Bruce Bothwell of Kenyon meet George Greenberg and Bill Clifford of Northwestern, and Shostrom and Jergenson of Chicago university play their teammates, Charles Sawyer and Bill Atkinson.

Besides McNeill, Talbert, Greenberg and Shostrom, players already qualified for the national tournament at Philadelphia June 25 are: Max Shane, Kalamazoo; Jerry Clifford, Northwestern; Dick McFarlane, Ohio State, and Cal Sawyier, Chicago.

SCORING a smashing 4 to 1 victory over the City News, last week's league leaders, the Tucker Furniture foursome took over the number one position in The News-Journal Class "B" golf league last night following loop matches at Possum Run.

The Tucker outfit won three out of four matches with Ferguson turning in a 39 to tie Arntz of the Central Fruit team for low-scoring honors in yesterday's matches.

Tinkey Lumbers jumped into second place by blanking the News-Journal foursome 5 to 0. They now share the second position with the Junior Association of Commerce team, which barely edged out the Bissman club by a 3 to 2 tally.

Other scores in last night's match-play was the 4 to 1 decision gained by the Central Fruit outfit over the Elks club foursome.

Other low scorers were Treisch of the Tinkeys who turned in a "40" card and Oberlander, also of the Tinkey team, Ackley, City News, and Kelley, Tucker's, who paced off the nine holes in 41. Leidel of the second-place J. A. C. foursome tallied a 42.

Bird Pitcher Hurls 2-Hitter

Other Association Hurlers Have Good Day.

(By Associated Press)

The American Association had a pitchers' celebration last night. It wasn't designated as such in advance but soon became evident as—

* * *

Lee Sherrill of Columbus pitched a two-hitter, Harry Kimberlin of Toledo, a four-hitter, Charley Stanceau a six-hitter in returning Kansas City to first place, and Bob Kline of Milwaukee a one-hit job in 6⅓ inning of relief hurling.

* * *

Kimberlin got the only shutout, a 3 to 0 decision over Louisville. Richardson's scratch single was the only blow off Sherrill until the eighth inning when Legrant Scott hammered out a homer for Indianapolis' only run as the Red Birds won, 3 to 1.

* * *

At Milwaukee, Minneapolis started out well in defense of its first place standing and was ahead, 3 to 1, when Kline relieved Frank Makasky in the third inning. Milwaukee won, 6-3.

* * *

St. Paul's only run off Stanceu was unearned, but it gave the Saints a momentary lead over Kansas City which went scoreless for the first four innings, then won, 4 to 1.
